

Public Hearing on Estes Case Planned

Subcommittee To Meet on Probe Details

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Investigations subcommittee meets today to order the start of public hearings—possibly late this month—on the explosive Billie Sol Estes case.

The subcommittee's staff is following a trail of evidence concerning alleged influence deals by the Texas financier.

Members of the subcommittee called it a foregone conclusion they would grant the request of Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., for authority to launch the hearings.

Closed Doors

They said the closed-door meeting also would provide an opportunity to determine the extent of any possible partisan bickering in the inquiry.

Both McClellan and Sen. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, the subcommittee's senior Republican member, have declared they hope partisanship will not be a problem.

McClellan and Mundt also teamed up in requesting the usual authority for the chairman to order bawky or questionable witnesses to be quizzed in closed-door sessions in advance of public hearings. They explained this is a precaution not used very often but valuable in cases of witnesses who, as Mundt put it, seem prone to "spread a lot of names in the record without any evidence."

Both senators have said they want the hearings to be objective, with no punches pulled.

Since April 17 the subcommittee has had an expanded staff, now totaling 30, exploring the allegations of influence dealing which flowed from the indictment of Estes, 37, in Texas on fraud charges.

The Pecos man built a fortune of $50 million out of dealings in the government's farm program and an attempt to corner the ammonia fertilizer market in West Texas. His sprawling, intricate financial manipulations reportedly extended from coast to coast before they collapsed and he declared himself bankrupt.

Mundt said Estes surely would be called to testify in public hearings and might be questioned first in closed door session. He has been subpoenaed.

Son of Embassy Employee Found After Kidnaping

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—A Canadian Embassy employee reported Wednesday his teen-age son was found, gagged and left on a rooftop by two would-be kidnappers who demanded $50,000 ransom.

The boy, Gordon Wallace, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Wallace of Vancouver, was found safe on the roof of Wallace's apartment building Monday.

Newspapers reported police had arrested the building superintendent.

The boy's father said two men grabbed his son as he was walking downstairs, hid him on the roof and left a note at his apartment door demanding the ransom money be put in the elevator.

Wallace said that he called the police who found the youth a short time later.

Five Appointed To Vacancies in French Cabinet

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle has quickly filled the jobs of five cabinet ministers who quit in protest against his policy on European unity.

The five—all members of the Catholic Popular Republican Party—walked out in anger after De Gaulle at a news conference denounced as dreamers those who seek a supranational integrated Europe. De Gaulle favors a loose confederation in which each nation would have a

The cabinet vacancies were over one post.

Nelson Calls For Efficiency On State Level

Governor Proposes Two Amendments to Improve Economy

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Gov. Gaylord Nelson today called for a massive assault on the problems of making Wisconsin state government a more efficient and economical instrument of the people.

In a prepared speech to a meeting of the Special Taxpayers Committee on the State Budget and the Public Expenditures Survey Nelson proposed two constitutional amendments and a governmental reorganization commission of legislators and private citizens.

One constitutional amendment would reduce the number of state agencies from 73 to 20 and the other would allow the governor to initiate changes in the organization of the administrative branch. Nelson has offered both amendments to previous sessions of the Legislature and they were turned down.

Cities Commissions

The Governor said he "believed strongly in the value of citizen commissions and committees." He said a commission on education should be established to "make certain we are spending money as efficiently as possible and that our children are getting the best education this money can buy."

Nelson proposed an education commission to the Legislature at the last session and it failed to pass.

The Governor said his proposals failed in the last Legislature, in part, because of a lack of public expression of support.

"Now is the time to organize broad citizen support for a massive assault on these problems," he declared.

Costs Increase

"There is no doubt," Nelson said, "that local government will continue to perform the functions of education, conservation welfare and highways and perform them at a cost which will continue to increase as our population increases."

But he said "there is considerable doubt whether the level of efficiency in the performance of these functions will increase."

Nelson said he didn't believe most Wisconsin citizens realize the cumbersome nature of state government.

"If we compared it to a business corporation," he stated, "it would be the largest in Wisconsin, with 24,000 employees, half a billion dollars worth of buildings located at 26 major installations, and with annual expenditures of more than $600 million."

But as a corporation it would be "the most poorly organized and the least efficient corporation in the state," he added.

Nelson urged the committee and survey to support the goal of a better staffed and serviced Legislature, continuing analysis of state accounting procedures, continuing analysis of all paper-work processing, more centralized purchasing and expansion of electric data processing.

White House Abounds With Numerous Pets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two empress. He seemed enamoured. ponies named Macaroni and Tex not so much of her as of a bunch emerged as clean as hounds' of daffodils she carried.

Caroline's animal friends once included two hamsters, Billie and Debbie. They got into the news when they escaped from their cage and enjoyed a weekend of freedom in the White House. One even turned up in President Kennedy's bathtub.

Billie and Debbie are deceased now of unexplained causes, as is when President William Howard Robin, a canary who lived in Taft brought the first automobile to the White House—a White Ford. But in summertime there are ducks around a White House pool, and goldfish in it.

Britain Plans to Send Token Force of Troops To Show Solidarity

Will Wait for Official Request From Thailand Before Action

Chicago Daily News Service

LONDON — Britain is expected to send one squadron of hunter-killers to Thailand as a symbol of solidarity with the United States, which is now in the process of moving 5,000 men into the country.

Such a move by Britain was expected to follow receipt of an official request for aid by Thailand and an earlier indication from the United States that it would welcome a token British force.

Officials at the British Ministry of Defense laughed off suggestions that Britain might send in ground troops, either from the Commonwealth Brigade in Malaya or from the Royal Marine commando that is stationed aboard the commando carrier Bulwark, now in Jesselton, North Borneo.

Britain doesn't have enough troops in the area to have any effect on the situation in Thailand and is bound to let the United States do the lion's share of the job, they said.

Some confusion was caused in London Wednesday by reports from Washington to the effect that the United States had asked the British to send troops to Thailand.

Official reaction to these reports was that no such request had been received and that the British government would only be able to act in response to a request from Thailand itself. It was later learned that the U. S. government had in fact indicated that it would welcome some British force but that any request for help under the Southeast Asian Treaty would have to come from Thailand.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was due to announce Britain's answer to the request in the House of Commons this afternoon, provided the request arrived in time.

Although the British press abstained from editorial comment, some political waters indicated that Macmillan was embarrassed by the American move and felt that it might damage his personal position.

"To say 'yes' to the American request will probably compromise Britain's position as honest broker in her role as co-chairman with Russia of the Laos Peace Conference," wrote the Daily Mail's team of political reporters.

"For that reason on Mr. Macmillan ruled out suggestions of a commonwealth brigade force with British, Australian and New Zealand troops going in to show the flag."

Since any British token force would go to Thailand and not to Laos it was not clear how compliance with the American suggestion would seriously affect Britain's role in trying to find a peaceful solution of the Laotian trouble.

Coeds Switching To Pipes, Owner Of Shop Reports

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — College girls are going in for the manly art of pipe smoking, says the proprietor of a smoke shop.

Sam Watkins says he has sold 100 pipes to women in the past three years. Mostly Douglass College coeds, I think.

And one coed cornered at the tobacco counter admitted Wednesday, "I enjoy a drag on a pipe once in a while."

Like cigarettes 30 years ago the pipe is not something women flaunt in public. It's reserved for discreet use at home.

Big Push Seen on Care for Aged Bill

President Has Avoided Head-on Clash With Members of Congress

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Kennedy talks on television and radio Sunday about medical care for the aged it will be the start of the big push for his program and a vivid insight into a way he handles Congress.

For almost a decade — ever since President Truman left — there have been no brawls between the White House and senators and representatives.

President Eisenhower while sometimes critical of the Democrats as a party, followed an opposite technique for eight years in dealing with individual members of Congress in both parties.

He didn't attack or criticize individually. Kennedy pursues the same system. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, because that's the way he operated in the Senate, probably would have done likewise if he were president.

It's His Way

Whether Eisenhower was or Johnson is, an influence on Kennedy in his velvet-glove approach is not clear. Probably not. After 14 years in Congress himself, Kennedy could be expected to operate this way. It's his way.

But just because medical care for the aged is one of his major programs and one of those for which he will fight hardest, his tactics in pressing it illuminate a number of things about his presidency.

By avoiding head-on clashes with individual members of Congress who oppose him on one issue, he puts no personal reason in the way of their support on other programs where they have no particular stake or feeling.

For example, some of the Southern Democrats who wrecked his new civil rights measures will be with him in other fields, but probably wouldn't be if he had come out of his way to job at them on civil rights. He didn't.

Or to take a specific example, Kennedy has been very careful and gentle with Rep. Wilbur Mills, Arkansas Democrat and chairman of the very powerful House Ways and Means Committee.

Mills has been a major stumbling block to Kennedy in the House on his medical care bill. But you hear no White House attacks on Mills.

The Kennedy administration feels Mills has been a great help on other issues and will be again on still more when the medical care issue is out of the way. So the administration is trying to get around him, not through him.

Whether all this adds up to the ideal way of handling Congress is a matter of Kennedy's political judgment. It could be argued that if Kennedy is really anxious to get through all the programs he tells Congress he wants he should be willing to fight hard for all of them.

If he gets his special major items, or some of them, through this year, they'll be out of the way. Next year he can be expected to put his weight behind some other special projects while merely giving his blessing to others.

This would indicate Kennedy is hoping to be judged at the end of his four years on his total performance instead of on a year-by-year reckoning of hits and misses.

That's the long view but it seems to be the one he has.

He and his aides have been laying the groundwork for a real effort on medical care. The big drive starts next Sunday when he talks in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Grocery Firm Will be Near New London

NEW LONDON — A&P grocery chain will locate in this vicinity, attorney Francis Werner, representing the company said Wednesday even though it did not obtain an option on the city owned building known as Structo.

Whether they will locate within or outside the city limits is still being studied, he said. He added the company seems to think there is a trend for locating outside the city limits. The firm recently obtained an option on property known as the Blonkey property just outside the city limits in the town of Horton.

Werner said he has been trying to convince the firm to locate within the city limits.

The firm is still looking for possible sites and several people have offered to sell them property. But, Werner said, the company has a policy that they must have three square feet of parking space for every square foot of store space.

The city owned Structo building was sold to Quality Markets Inc. a local grocer, for $26,500 at a meeting of the city council Tuesday night.

'A New Birth of Freedom'

Most Americans know that the principal radio programs beamed from the West to the satellite nations of Eastern Europe are those of Voice of America, BBC and Radio Free Europe. It is a matter of great importance that the news of the western world be transmitted to the people behind the Iron Curtain and that the news of the Communist countries, as understood by the western countries, be beamed back to the satellite nations.

The Free Europe Committee, Inc., of New York, which sponsors Radio Free Europe, states that more than 90 per cent of the RFE programs to Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Bulgaria and Romania actually penetrate the Communist jamming and are heard on at least one frequency. The RFE uses 28 transmitters with a total power exceeding 1,250,000 watts and a "versatile approach in engineering and operation technique" to foil the Communist jammers.

To check on radio listening in Eastern Europe, 2,500 East European refugees and visitors to the West were interviewed. The vast majority had listened to Western stations. They feel Radio Free Europe, which has a volume of programming exceeding the combined programming of all western stations transmitting to the five satellite nations in their native languages, had the greatest listenership. Most of the East Europeans said they had tuned in regularly to Radio Free Europe at least two or three times a week. The regular RFE listeners included 81 per cent of the Poles interviewed, more than 50 per cent of the Bulgarians, Hungarians and Romanians, and slightly less than 50 per cent of the Czechs and Slovaks. The refugees reported that the programs have a vast word of mouth circulation. One described the process as "a bush telegraph which passes on news and spreads it even to the villages speedily."

In order to thwart Communist propaganda efforts RFE gave concentrated coverage to Communist bloc developments including some domestic affairs of each of the satellite countries as well as extensive coverage of free-world events. During 1961, the major stories handled were those of the growing economic and political developments of West European nations; stories of the new administration of the United States and its policies; stories of the erection of the Berlin Wall and the Communist drive on Free Berlin; stories of Moscow's bad faith in the field of disarmament, and its resumption of nuclear testing; the "de-Stalinization" campaign and the reported divisions within the Communist world particularly the Sino-Soviet conflict at the 22nd Congress of the Soviet Communist party in Moscow.

The Communist efforts to discourage people behind the Curtain from listening to Radio Free Europe included extensive propaganda attacks in Red regime newspapers, magazines, books, pamphlets, movies and on radio and television. Some Communist propagandists, according to RFE, initiated the game of misinforming people about the contents of RFE broadcasts with a view to raising doubts about their accuracy and perhaps to injure the station's credibility.

The report of RFE indicates quite clearly that America has come a long way in its efforts to get the attention and understanding of the people behind the Iron Curtain. It may be accepted as fact that the refugees and visitors reaching the Western Nations are above average in understanding and in courage. Although a large majority of them report that they were regular listeners to these broadcasts it does not follow that the same percentage of people behind the Iron Curtain are listeners. It is undoubtedly a much smaller percentage but the "bush telegraph system" certainly is reaching large numbers of people in the satellite nations. Unquestionably the effort is worth carrying on and deserves the support of all Americans.

Aid to India

The vote of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to cut United States aid to India by 25 per cent obviously reflects the annoyance of the members at the Indian aggression against Goa and its refusal to hold a plebiscite in the Kashmir. As led by Sen. Symington, the eight committee members who voted for the cut have pointed out that, while no military aid goes to India from us, our economic aid naturally permits their government to spend money on military affairs.

We concur with the committee's displeasure over Goa. We think the Indians should look at the Kashmir matter from the attitude of the inhabitants rather than an obviously nationalistic and religious opposition. We deplore Nehru's continued pious statements about peace while he arms for war and his inability to decide where the real evil in the world lies today. We have opposed Krishna Menon practically every time he opened his mouth since his statements about the United States are vitriolic as well as ridiculous.

Choosing Curtains—and Spouses

With the headlong rush toward early marriage and the ever rising divorce rate, it would be fortunate if someone could come up with a simple test of compatibility by which couples could project themselves into the future. The National Institute of Mental Health in Bethesda, Md. conducted a series of experiments that at least should indicate to young people considering marriage something of how it may work out.

The institute took couples who had been married about three months and gave each husband and wife a swatch of material and asked them to match colors. The selections were then compared.

Actually the tests did not much involve how close were the choices by the individuals but how they then worked out the differences. Obviously if a couple did not agree upon a match, they had to come up somehow with a choice upon which both could agree.

"Couples range from those who can tolerate the situation only for a brief time, and thus can accomplish very little of this exploration of alternatives and must rapidly seek a solution, to those couples who tolerate uncertainty well and explore together a resourceful diversity of alternatives," said the report. Of course this is one way of saying something which marriage counselors long have known. Marriage is a matter of give and take and the ability of husband and wife to realize and live up to the knowledge determines in some degree the success of the marriage to both partners.

But the Maryland test had one new advantage. It was related directly to an aspect of marriage preparation. If the prospective husband throws up his hands at the bride's choice of living room drapes with a huffy "Have it your own way," it is likely he'll mutter about those drapes as long as they hang by the windows. And if a new wife can't stand the color of the kitchen walls, the meals are going to reflect it.

Spreading Government Contracts

Businessmen from Northeastern Wisconsin interested in learning how to win government contracts will do well to attend the workshop conference to be held by the Defense Supply Agency at the Leatham Smith Lodge at Sturgeon Bay on Friday.

The conference has been arranged through the joint efforts of the Air Force, the Army and the Navy. Some 20 representatives of various contracting departments of the three services will be present to meet with businessmen and industrialists.

Russell H. Leitch, chief of the small business and contractors relations office of the Milwaukee Air Force Contract Management District, says the conference will be "a prime opportunity for businessmen in Northeastern Wisconsin to find out who in the government buys what, and to be informed of other details necessary to obtain a government contract." The government lets contracts in many fields including textiles, wooden articles, furniture, food, chemicals, paper products, canned goods, plastics, parts, plating, mechanical and electrical equipment, heavy and light machinery, and all forms of business and personal services.

'Eh? What Say?'

People's Forum

Should Younger People Pay For Physical Ills of Aged?

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Naturally many of the retired people are in favor of increased benefits. It also holds true that most of the younger people (who would be paying for it) are against it.

Most young people feel that the present Social Security tax system is high enough. It requires all those who earn $4,800 per year to pay in 1962, $300; 1963 to 65, $348; 1966 to 67, $396; 1968 and after $444. These figures are the total amount paid per employee, and are based on the present law, and for the present level of benefits without consideration of any extensions. This means that the high school graduate of 18 will pay a total of $20,436 from now until the time he retires at 65.

Some people want to add to this by the introduction of the King Bill (H. R. 4222). This bill, while providing some hospitalization benefits to some people over 65 who are not under Social Security or railroad retirement, would not cover the millions of persons over 65 and those persons under Social Security who are not yet 65 whether or not they are now drawing Social Security cash benefits would not be covered.

The people that would be covered would not be paid for surgery, physicians care, private duty nursing, drugs and medicines outside the hospital or nursing home. The plan would also have a maximum of 90 days hospital coverage with a maximum deductible amount of $90.

In effect this is only intended as a door opener. Former Congressman Forand, one of the principal proponents of the Social Security approach, was quoted last year as saying, "If we can only break through and get our foot inside the door, then we can expand the program after that."

The King bill would shift from the traditional Social Security concept of cash benefits to service benefits. No responsible government could undertake to provide service benefits to individuals without at the same time promulgating rules and regulations covering the care provided and the price to be paid. We all know that this would lead to control of medical care by the federal government.

Do we need socialized medicine, or even a limited medical care bill such as the King Bill? Over 75 per cent of the population have some form of voluntary health insurance, and of these over 65 about 53 per cent.

Wyngaard Is Commended

Editor, Post-Crescent:

John Wyngaard's article in the May 6 issue of the Appleton Post-Crescent gave the best picture of the functions and operations of the Public Expenditure Survey of Wisconsin that has been published in the daily press. To me, it was another example of John's penetrating reporting.

State Democrats Show They are Big-Timers

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — For many persons whose acquaintance with Wisconsin political affairs goes back more than a decade, it is difficult to remember that the realignment of the state that started about that time may be a permanent thing. There is a tendency among them to assume that the election of Democrats during the last part of the preceding decade was something of a fluke and that sooner or later the state will return to its one party and Republican orientation.

It may be that the state will return to its GOP moorings. There are signs abroad that it may be a better year for the Republicans, and the signs have a kind of reluctant confirmation in the pessimism of some of the local Democrats preparing for another rout in the fall.

But it is perfectly clear that this now is a legitimate two-party state, and one of the proofs of the characterization is the thoroughly professional way in which the contemporary Democratic party organization is operating. One of the most impressive of those demonstrations was the plushly triumphant money raising rally at Milwaukee last weekend which President Kennedy thought important enough to attend in spite of his worrisome preoccupation with foreign affairs problems at the White House.

Any political party in this comparatively small state of modest traditions of campaign financing that can induce contributors, willing or otherwise, to pay $200,000 net to the party campaign chest for a single dinner is in business.

Looking Backward

President Lincoln Goes to Norfolk

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for May 15, 1862.

When the rebels burned the navy yard and dry dock at Norfolk and blew up the Merrimack (on May 11), our forces, accompanied by President Lincoln and his Secretaries of Treasury and War, soon took possession.

Gen. Vele has been made Military Governor. The yard and dock are to be speedily rebuilt. Thus expires the last rebel hope of a navy!

Gen. Fremont's army has reached the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad, near the East Tennessee line, completely cutting off the retreat of the rebels to the southwest.

Gen. Lovel (rebel) has reached Corinth, Miss., with 30,000 rebels from New Orleans. The army is strengthening his position and severe skirmishes are constantly occurring. An innumerable force of Negroes is kept at work by Gen. Beauregard. Everything indicates a desperate struggle.

Maj. Sharpe, who was carried away by the rebels when they evacuated Columbus, Miss., has since escaped and pointed out the spot where 30 guns were buried by the rebels. They have been recovered by our troops.

Continual skirmishes attend our advance toward Richmond. Gen. McClellan's headquarters are at Cumberland Court House and the advance corps is at White House, six miles beyond, and but 23 miles from Richmond.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday May 13, 1937.

Max Sieg was named chairman and Clarence Quall secretary of the committee of 20 Clintonville businessmen in charge of the city's 50th anniversary of its incorporation. Plans were made for a homecoming celebration July 3, 4 and 5.

William E. Schubert, Appleton, was chosen to lead a forum on public utilities at the 10th Fox River Valley and Lake Shore Safety Conference in Oshkosh, May 20. E. S. Schrank, Oshkosh, was general chairman of the event and E. J. Dempsey, Oshkosh, was to serve as toastmaster at the annual banquet. Oshkosh schools were to be closed in order that students could take part in the safety parade.

Kaukauna High School boxers who earned letters in the sport included John Vandenberg, Wilfred Van Able, Bernard Busse, Wilbur Mohr, Norman Ashe, and Warren Alger. Two wrestlers also were awarded letters—Eugene Vander Loop and Jeff Verbeten.

Appleton Terrors won seven first places and tied for an eighth first place to win the track meet at Neenah the previous day. Jack Sellers led the parade with firsts in the 440 and low hurdles, setting records in both, won first in the broad jump and tied the record and was a member of Appleton's top relay team. Vincent Jones won firsts in the shot and discus and set a record in the shot. Ken Slattery earned a first in the high hurdles and tied for first with three Oshkosh boys in the high jump.

On the arrangements committee for the Charity dance of Little Women's Circle, King's Daughters, were the Misses Betty Brown, Elizabeth Catlin and Helen Lewis.

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, May 15, 1952.

Peggy Landis and Wayne Mannebach were named co-consuls of the Appleton High School Latin Club.

Newly elected officers of the Mothers Club of First Methodist Church included Mrs. Marvin Werner, president, Mrs. DeMont Bradford, vice president, Mrs. Howard Miller, secretary, and Mrs. Robert Chase, treasurer.

Gerald Ristau, Appleton student at Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa, was elected president of the junior class.

Mrs. Fred Christman and Mrs. Albert Zupke were co-chairmen of the Silver Cross Circle's spring puppet show. The King's Daughters project was to include "Red Riding Hood" and "Rumpelstiltskin."

In charge of the Gold Star Mothers' banquet the previous evening were Mrs. Paul Spritzer, Mrs. John Hantschel, Mrs. Floyd Kessler, Mrs. Ernestine McCarey and Mrs. Edward Dries.

Mrs. C. C. Nelson was elected president of the Tuesday Study Club.

LL and Mrs. John F. Brunke were visiting at the home of Mr. Brunke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Brunke, Bellaire Court.

Meivin E. Mace was named chairman of the Neenah Board of Appeals. Leo Boehm was elected secretary to succeed Mace and Robert Bernard was newly appointed to the board by Mayor Carl E. Loehning.

Kurtz Hires 36
To Fill Vacancies,
New Positions

Appleton still has 18 teacher vacancies for the 1962-1963 school year. Superintendent of Schools
Royce E. Kurtz told the Board of Education

Thirty-six teachers have been hired as replacements or to fill new positions. The total of 34 vacancies included 35 replacements and 19 new positions.

Three of the new positions—for two speech correctionists and one special education teacher — have remained open for more than a year because the administration was unable to find persons to fill them.

A breakdown of the vacancies shows nine for the high school, 15 for junior high, 23 for elementary schools, and seven resource persons.

The public schools have a total teaching staff of 375.

Kurtz told the board he has followed its suggestion to have termination conferences with all teachers who leave the system area.

Most are discontinuing teaching.
for family reasons he said, while about six have gone to other owners school systems.

He said the number of vacancies is about average.

New Drugs on Market Cause
MDs Dilemma

Medics Faced With Widespread Use or Controlled Research

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—Out of the laboratory comes a promising new drug.
Some doctors give it to a few patients.
At first blush, it seems helpful. The patients benefit.
But then, for the doctor, comes a difficult moral dilemma.
Should he give it to all his patients suffering from the same illness, out of his desire to help them all?

Moral Decision
Or should he not give it to some of his patients, so he can really tell what good it is doing? Should he perhaps just give it to every other patient, or otherwise pick them at random, to judge the real effect of the drug?
If he gives it to everyone, he has no way of judging what it does. It might turn out he was giving a fairly useless drug to hundreds of patients.
But if he doesn't give it, he may be denying some humans the help from a good drug.
This moral dilemma is pointed up by Dr. Arthur J. Seaman, associate professor of medicine at the University of Oregon Medical School in Portland. He also directs the university's laboratory dealing with why and how blood coagulates or thickens to form helpful or harmful blood clots.

Pills' Effect
Sound first judgments on the real value of any new drug are not easy to make objectively.
The doctor can hope that a drug will work, and be delighted when it seems to do so.
His patients want something to help them. Even if they get only a sugar pill, or placebo, without knowing it, about 30 per cent of people will tell the doctor that they feel better. Quite often they look better—their symptoms appear to be less severe, or even disappear.
Even if a physician is aware of these chances, he can become unimpressed that the drug is the new thing that is producing good effects.

Then he could easily think it would be a pity not to give it to all patients suffering from the same trouble. Dr. Seaman remarked to physicians attending a heart disease symposium sponsored by Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital in Philadelphia.
Helpful Debate
New drugs or treatments can be accepted uncritically, Dr. Seaman says. Or doctors hesitate to make really objective tests because they feel the drug or treatment is helping their patients.
As an example, he says, it is well known now that premature babies exposed to too much oxygen can develop damage to their eyes that causes blindness.
But at one time, doctors disagreed whether too much or too little oxygen was the cause.
"Each side refused to engage in a statistical comparison with untreated controls, on the ethical and humanitarian grounds that they could not bring themselves to withhold from any infant what each conceived to be the treatment of choice," Dr. Seaman says.

Some drugs that first looked promising, and which drew warm support because of benefits attributed to them, have since been abandoned on grounds they were not doing what they were supposed to.
Others have been withdrawn because, after thousands of persons had been treated, doctors noticed that a few persons were suffering bad effects. In many such cases, the chance that a few might be hurt outweighed the potential or real benefits for others.

Menasha High Junior Wins Post-Crescent Essay Contest

To Attend UW Journalism Workshop

APPLETON — Suelyn Brezinski, Menasha High School junior, has been awarded a two-week scholarship to the 1962 Summer High School Journalism Workshop at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, as winner of the Appleton Post-Crescent's essay contest.

Her essay "The Importance of a Good Local Newspaper to the Community" won the unanimous vote of four judges from the editorial staff of the Post-Crescent. It was chosen from more than 40 essays submitted by High School students from the Post-Crescent's circulation area. Suelyn will receive $76 for tuition and living expenses, payable to the Workshop, which will be in session June 17 to 30. The session is designed to provide high school journalists with top quality instruction in the techniques of writing, editing and producing high school newspapers and yearbooks.

Understand Responsibilities
In addition, the workshop will focus attention on skills in photography and on areas of special interest to help participants understand better the functions and responsibilities of mass communication in today's society.

The Workshop is sponsored by The University of Wisconsin Summer Sessions in cooperation with the Wisconsin Press Association and the Wisconsin Daily Newspaper League. Ralph O. Nafziger, director of the School of Journalism, heads the Workshop administration.

Suelyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Brezinski, 323 Willow Lane, Menasha, and this is the first time she has ever tried for a scholarship. It was her first experience with "dead-line" and she prepared her essay in three days.

She was encouraged by Miss

Bernice Miller of the Menasha High School, guidance counselor. Miss Bernice Bienfang, Blue Jay advisor and Harry Johnson, English instructor and advisor for The Nicolet yearbook.

To Be News Editor

In the last year Suelyn has been a typist for the school paper, The Blue Jay, and next year she will be its news editor. She will also be a staff member of The Nicolet.

Active in Girls Glee Club, G. A. A., Pop Club and Future Teachers of America, the contest winner plans to attend one of the State Colleges and prepare herself for teaching in the primary grades. She is in the upper 10 per cent of her class and hopes to acquire a minor in languages.

She has indicated on her formal application to the Workshop that her special interests will be news and feature reporting and writing and yearbook preparation and staff problems. This scholarship came as an unexpected birthday gift as she will celebrate that day, June 24, on campus.

Suelyn Brezinski, Menasha High School junior, receives the 1962 Summer High School Journalism Workshop scholarship offered by the Post-Crescent from Glenn H. Arthur, treasurer of the Post Publishing Co. Looking on, center, is Principal L. A. Wienbergen. Suelyn's 500 word essay "The Importance of a Good Local Newspaper to the Community" was chosen from 40 submitted by high school juniors in the Post-Crescent circulation area. The workshop will be held at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, June 17 to 30.

Community Growth Related To Newspaper, Student Says

BY SUELYN BREZINSKI

"The Importance of a Good Newspaper to the Community"
I believe that the success and growth of a community is directly related to its newspaper. Advertisements help influence citizens to purchase goods in their hometown. When this happens, the community will grow and prosper.

Although the economic standpoint is important to the growth of a community, it is not the only factor that governs success. People themselves are more important. It is the news which keeps the people interested and active in local, national and international affairs. Rousseau had this in mind when he wrote, "As soon as any man says of the affairs of the State, 'What does it matter to me?' the State may be given up for lost." By relating the news when it happened, where it happened, and how it happened, the newspaper has the means to prevent that man from saying, "What does it matter to me?"

When events are printed as they happen, the readers form opinions and take stands on problems that face their community and nation. Once the citizens are aware of these problems, know the facts concerning them, and form their opinions, they can vote intelligently.

Facts About Candidates
The most efficient governmental officials are chosen by an informed electorate. Because paid advertisements give only one side of a candidate's life, the newspaper must inform the public about the facts in his background.

One of the favorite ways of relaxing in America today is to read the hometown news, where small articles can be very interesting. Many of these short articles are not only entertaining but also educational. New farming methods and ideas are often introduced and popularized by means of the newspaper.

This media of communication also promotes public institutions and clubs. The success of a play, concert, or other presentation is dependent upon the amount of publicity it has received.

The newspaper also gives a chance for the average man to voice his opinion. Home owners often write to the editors. In letters they comment on previously printed articles, on civic issues, or on anything else that they think ought to be published. This allows the community to take a more active part in local affairs. Many obscure problems of a city can be discovered and solved because the people use the newspaper, directly or indirectly, to improve their community. Thomas Jefferson once said that if he had to choose between government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, he would choose the latter. He felt that the newspaper could better represent the people.

I believe that all communities, large and small alike, should use their newspaper in this manner. Many areas of our country would not have the problems they now face if they had used the facilities of the press many years ago.

Doctors, Uncle Sam Have Rubbed Elbows

BY EDWIN A. LAHEY
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Members of the American Medical Association have been rubbing elbows with Uncle Sam in their hospital corridors for more than 15 years. Since the passage of the Hill-Burton Hospital Construction Act, 1,596 health centers with 238,946 hospital beds have been built with tax money.

The total cost has been $1,930,000,000. The federal government has paid $1,550,000,000 of this.

Other $3,380,000,000 came from hospital costs out of a Social Security fund.

Hippocratic Oath

In other words, neither the ethical imperatives of the Hippocratic Oath, nor the fear of socialized medicine has restrained a doctor since 1946 from slicing a man open under a light paid for by the federal government.

For this and other reasons, doctors here declare to take fright at the veiled threat of a "doc-been gathering dust for more than a year."

Allies Plan Token Units To Back U.S. in Thailand

icopters to Bangkok's Don Muang Airport.

U.S. C130 Hercules transports were warned up to rush the Marines to bases in northeast Thailand to start patrolling along the Mekong River nearby between Thailand and Laos.

Led by Lt. Col. Fred A. Steele of Ventura, Calif., the Marine task force will bolster a 1,300-man American Army combat group already in Thailand since the SEATO maneuvers here two weeks ago. That group was to be strengthened by another 700 men from Hawaii and Okinawa, and U.S. Army, Marine and Air Forces in Thailand will total about 5,000 men.

Gen. Richardson On Way
Lt. Gen. James L. Richardson, jungle warfare expert and deputy chief of U.S. Army forces in the Pacific, arrived in Saigon, South Viet Nam, on his way to Bangkok to take command of the American forces in Thailand. In Saigon he conferred with Gen. Paul D. Harkins, who heads U.S. forces in both Viet Nam and Thailand.

The American Marines and infantrymen are expected to be strung out along a 500-mile arc running from Udorn, a town just below the Laotian capital of Vientiane, and east and south to Ubon, across from the southern part of Laos near Cambodia. Both Udorn and Ubon have airports and are on rail lines to Bangkok.

The American invasion-by-invitation of this ancient land of Buddhist temples, smiling people and rich rice fields went off smoothly.

The first wave came ashore at daybreak.

First Marine Ashore
With youthful Marines lining the railings, the Point Defiance and the Navarro steamed up Chao Phraya River to land them at Klong Toey with their battle equipment.

The first Marine ashore was Capt. Maurice H. Ivins, 35, of Chambersburg, Pa., a platoon commander.

The swift action by President Kennedy in sending troops to stand by worried Thailand drew the approval of other nations in the anti-Communist Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

SEATO's permanent council in Bangkok emphasized in a statement that the American buildup was "entirely precautionary and defensive in character but that it also served as a warning that any Communist aggression will be resisted."

British Prime Minister Macmillan met Wednesday night with his defense committee of senior cabinet ministers and military chiefs. Macmillan was expected to tell Parliament later today that Britain is ready to send about 200 men to Thailand. Britain has 600 crack Marine commandos aboard the aircraft carrier Bulwark at Jesselton, North Borneo, about 48 hours from Bangkok.

New Zealand May Act
Australian Foreign Minister Sir Garfield Barwick told his Parliament Australia might also send regular army troops to Thailand if the Thais ask for military aid.

New Zealand's Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake told newsmen in Wellington his government is considering dispatching a small contingent to augment the American force.

"It is most important New Zealand should join the Allies in demonstrating solidarity with Thailand at a time when the military situation in northern Laos has seriously deteriorated with Communist forces moving very near the borders of Thailand," he said.

France Opposes Action
France, Pakistan and the Philippines are the other members of the eight-nation SEATO alliance. The Philippines had previously pressed for intervention in Laos when serious fighting there first flared up. France was against any such move at that time.

There were no reports of fighting in Laos since the royal forces in Houei Sai fled in panic across the Mekong River into Thailand a week ago.

The U.S.-backed airlift of about 3,000 Laotian troops back to government-held territory was nearing completion.

Ranging over rebel-held territory in northwest Laos from Chiangrai, in northern Thailand, reconnaissance pilots reported they failed to spot any Communist troops.

U. S. Expects Talks

The Reds advanced on Houei Sai after overrunning the provincial capital of Nam Tha, 80 miles to the north but never actually occupied the border town abandoned by the royalist troops. There was speculation in Chiangrai that the rebels might have withdrawn their main forces to Nam Tha, which the pro-Western Laotian government had built up as a stronghold but gave up after a brief fight.

U.S. officials in Washington still pinned their hopes for peace on resumption of political negotiations between the conservative, neutralist and pro-Communist factions in Laos.

The United States was reported considering resuming its monthly payment of $3 million to pay the expenses of the right-wing Vientiane government of Premier Prince Boun Oum. But indications in Washington were that the Kennedy administration would demand Boun Oum dump his chief deputy and the real power in the regime, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

Phoumi Criticized
President Kennedy reportedly blames Gen. Phoumi for the military crisis because he blocked the formation of a coalition regime under neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Boun Oum and Gen. Phoumi left Formosa for Vientiane today after a largely unsuccessful visit in search of aid. Despite their military reverses, they were outwardly defiant.

"We are willing to form a coalition government in Laos but not for the Communists," Gen. Phoumi told newsmen.

Boun Oum said he would demand firm guarantees against Laos being converted into a Communist state before agreeing to formation of a coalition government.

Souvanna Phouma, who quit Laos in disgust six weeks ago, is returning from France this weekend. Both he and spokesmen for Prince Souphanouvong, the leader of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao troops, have said they are ready to resume the political negotiations. However, the Pathet Lao has demanded that the United States withdraw the military advisers who are bolstering the Vientiane army.

Maj. W. R. Affleck, 38, of Buford, S.C., was asked how long the Marines expected to be in Thailand. "As long as we are needed," he replied tersely.

Royal Thai army trucks rushed the Marines to Don Muang Airport where they joined the group being airlifted from the carrier Valley Forge.

Within five hours the first big turboprop transport took off with Marines for the rail and highway center of Korat, about 180 miles northeast of Bangkok.

A spokesman said the airlift out of Bangkok may take up to two days.

Korat, a staging center for further movement north, has rail lines to Nongkhai, on the Laotian border in the north, and to Ubon, a large town near the frontier northeast of Bangkok.

Movement of the Marines to the northeast—instead of to the northwest where the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces drove closest to the Thai border—was seen in Bangkok as an attempt to demonstrate U.S. intentions of avoiding anything resembling aggressive action.

with more than $2,112,620,000 of life insurance in force. It has about 510 employees in the home office.

The firm was started in Appleton in 1902. Operations began in the kitchen of the home of one of the founders. Later larger quarters were obtained and in 1923 the firm built the five-story structure which will be razed to make way for the new addition.

Letter to Council
Home Mutuals President Gordon A. Bubolz already has announced plans to build a home office building in the town of Menasha.

Wednesday night Herbert Voeks, AAL vice president and secretary and chairman of the building committee, asked the common council by letter for permission to excavate under the sidewalks on both sides of the corner location and under the alley at the rear to provide storage space and room for snow melting equipment. The request was referred to the street and sanitation committee.

Killer Torrent
Strong winds, heavy rain and hail swept areas in Texas and the Southwest. Torrential rain totaling up to five inches sent a muddy torrent racing down a normally dry creek bed near Clarendon, Tex., and swept two persons from a pickup truck. One drowned and the other was missing.

Rainfall estimated at 4 to 8 inches deluged farm country between Plainview and Hale Center, Tex.

A tenant farmer and three children suffered minor injuries when winds of 75 miles per hour toppled a small farm house near Lubbock, Tex. Twenty farms in the area were reported stripped of cotton crops by moth-ball size hail.

In the Southeast, three persons were injured as winds up to 90 m.p.h. lashed Mobile, Ala., during a rainstorm. Thundershowers and strong winds were reported in other parts of Alabama and south Georgia.

Jet Engines Found Damaged

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Air Force officers are investigating the cause of damage to the engines of jet planes flown by the 326th Fighter Interceptor Squadron stationed at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base here.

The number of engines damaged has not been determined. The squadron normally has 26 of the single-engine F102s.

Col. Kenneth E. Rosebush, squadron commander, said Wednesday the damage by some foreign object was uncovered in a routine check.

It has not been determined there has been intentional damage, he said.

Unions Ordered Not To Picket in Attempt To Get Recognition

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Champaign, Ill., unions have been ordered by the National Labor Relations Board to refrain from picketing or other action aimed at forcing several contractors to make collective bargaining agreements with one of the unions.

The order, issued Wednesday, has the effect of preventing two union locals from forcing C.A. Petry and Sons, Inc., general contractor at a Country Fair Shopping center project in Champaign, to deal only with union contractors.

Local 230, Sheet Metal Workers, is seeking bargaining rights with several firms doing subcontracting work for the contractor at the project.

The local threw a picket line around the project last fall and Local 44, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, refused to cross it.

Century artist Wen Cheng Ming was left in an upstairs gallery by parties unknown.

Except for a slight tear in the mount, a museum spokesman said, the scroll is unharmed.

Attempts Reported To Derail Trains In West Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police said Wednesday they are investigating a series of attempts to derail elevated trains.

Concrete blocks, used for road-making, have been laid across the tracks several nights recently, police said.

In all cases the obstructions were knocked aside, but some trains were damaged.

The Berlin elevated is run by the Communist East German railroad authority. Most West Berliners have boycotted it since the Red wall was built last August.

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—An Irish trade mission left for the Soviet Union and Poland Wednesday on a three-week canvass of opportunities to step up exports to those countries.

In 1961 Ireland imported $9.3 million worth of goods from the Communist bloc and sold only $286,200 worth.

Carpenter has been an explorer all his life, says his father, Mal-

Presumably, Carpenter will go into seclusion in Hangar S with only telephone contact with his pretty wife, Rene. The blonde mother of the four Carpenter children is staying at a private home in nearby Cocoa Beach.

She came here earlier this week from the family home at Langley Air Force Base, Va. She said she prefers to watch the beginning of her husband's flight from the beach.

"There's nothing at all like it," she said, "to stand on the beach and see it go up—and the prayerful attitude of the crowd."

She will be the first of the astronauts' wives to be in the Cape area to watch her husband launched into space.

Another new experiment has been added to Carpenter's flight plan. Each time he passes over first flight into space—as a year-old baby. Remote Kazakhstan Becomes Center of Soviet Space Age

BY GEORGE WELLER
Chicago Daily News Service

ALMA ATA, Kazakhstan, U.S.S.R. — A sprawling new Soviet republic is finding its feet in Central Asia: Kazakhstan, a young giant as big as Western Europe and as secretive as the Kremlin.

Kazakhstan has an inaccessible facade of Cape Canaveral, untold mineral riches, and 10,000,000 people — one-quarter Russian and Ukrainian miners, missile workers, engineers, and collective farmers, plus many Volga Germans.

One peephole on this vast panorama has been lit by the Soviets: the capital, Alma Ata, dynamic, well-watered and beautiful. Pretty canals called "arik" run through the willow-lined streets.

Fourth of Series

Moscow Styles

Alma Ata, 2,200 feet above sea level, is ringed by solemn white concrete totemisms in the Moscow style. The capital is tucked in an old knot of caravan routes in the extreme southeast corner, a day's auto drive from China Baykonor from above or below. Two-thirds of Alma Ata's 500,000 people are Russians and Ukrainians.

Across the Tien-Shan Mountains in the east, in Chinese Sinkiang (pronounced "Seen-jang") live 400,000 Kazakhs who speak the same Turki dialect. Alma Ata has a Chinese newspaper, too. Kazakhstan's tightest secret is the "Cosmodrome" where the astronauts Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov were shot skyward for their flights around the earth — to land 300 miles northwest, in the Upper Volga. The "Cosmodrome," is located at Baykonor, a coal-mining zone in the thirty desert about 150 miles northeast of the Aral Sea.

The Soviets don't believe in Canaveral-type candor about their "skyway to the stars." The only foreigners who may have seen a day's auto drive from China Baykonor from above or below is the CIA snooper pilot Francis G. Powers, and whatever other U.S. pilots preceded him on flights from Peshawar, Pakistan.

No Monuments Here

Baykonor is no public monument, even now. Each comrade carefully avoids knowing more than the paragraph or two of published information. The de-biased information is de-liberated. Sectional pride must be choked down, because too much talk might start secret information circulating despite Baykonor's inaccessibility.

The "Cosmodrome" enjoys a climate roughly like northern Arizona and New Mexico: clear skies, broiling days and icy nights, about one foot of crisp snowfall for two months.

Remote though it is, the "Cosmodrome" is surrounded by ferocious climate — everything, in fact, except an exit to an ocean.

molybdenum. An abundant fueling source lies 500 miles westward in the oil fields of the northern Caspian, where Kazakhstan aims to hit a 2,000,000 ton annual production level by 1965.

But the fuel must be carried roundabout by rail. The only railroad access comes from the east, on a line from the Karaganda coal fields, once used by Joseph Stalin as a huge concentration camp.

Center of Things

For the astral and terrestrial geographer, remote Baykonor is right at the center of things. Being almost at the umbilicus of Asia, it is surrounded by the vast protective land belts that always make the Soviets feel more comfortable than when they're near the sea.

The "Cosmodrome" is neatly placed on the north-south continental watershed, between rivers that flow south to the great lakes and seas and north to the Arctic, 3,000 miles away.

The chances of a sensitively tilted missile being disturbed on its path by earthquake shock is lessened. Baykonor lies as far as it could from its two flanking earthquake zones: the Caucasus on the west and the Karakorum Mountains on the south. But its access to the sea cannot be considered from Western radar eyes in Turkey and Pakistan.

Kazakhstan will some day be rich in electric power. It lies at the dramatic line of Asia's lakes, comparable to our Great Lakes or Africa's "rift system." From Siberia's Baikal, Kazakhistan's Balkhash, and the Aral and Caspian seas, the line of vast lakes offers water power and a moderating force on the ferocious climate — everything, in fact, except an exit to an ocean.

Perhaps it's the smile that does it. Like his other colleagues, though, Lauren finds his success is coupled to good service, together with a friendly attitude and courtesy.

Lauren lives with his family, which includes three brothers and one sister, at 1246 S. Kernan Ave., Appleton. His route includes the 1500 to 2300 blocks on Kernan Avenue, 1200 and 1300 blocks of E. Calumet Street, 2000 to 2200 blocks on Gladys Street, the 1300 block of E. Harding Avenue and the 1200 block of E. Hanson Drive.

The young business man is in the eighth grade at Madison Junior High School, likes to play baseball, football and basketball and, weather permitting, enjoys a good swim. When the weather cramps his outdoor activities, Lauren can be found working on his model car construction or adding to his coin collection. Helping to buy the clothes and compiling savings for his education are two main applications of his newspaper earnings.

...And Suddenly it's Springtime

Here is a Thoroughly delicious menu for an outdoor meal to celebrate the warm weather. The informal feast includes Scampi Bundles . . . Shrimp cooked with savory sauce and seasonings in foil packets . . . crisp and hot Italian bread slices with sesame seeded crusts . . . and plump, fresh tomatoes stuffed with an elegant vegetable cole slaw. Every recipe on the menu is easy to prepare . . . each has wonderful flavor. Served together they make a memorable meal.

Flavor Tips Found in Other Lands

From the island of Jamaica comes this flavoring secret: Add three fourth teaspoon whole allspice to four pounds chicken backs when simmering chicken stock.

Every part of a fresh shallot, from the crisp green leaves to the white elongated bulb, is edible. Milder and more aromatic than onions, they are widely used in French cookery.

Fine vinegars are made from certain of the wines of France. White wine, red wine, rose wine and tarragon vinegar are now available to give a taste of France to American salad dressing.

Curry is the Indian word for sauce and is seasoned with approximately the same spices we buy here as curry powder.

At long last Spring really has busted out all over . . . a wonderful, magical change that makes up for the cool, cool days of waiting. It's enough to bring out the wanderlust in the most efficient of homemakers and a trip through the countryside or a walk down Fox Cities streets is worth every minute spent.

The flowering crabs are masses of beautiful blooms . . . the cherry and plum trees aglow with fragrant, delicate flowers. In gardens, tulips are reaching their full flowering and lilacs are swelling with deep purple buds. The willows are wearing their best yellow-green wands and country spots are carpeted with yellow cowslips, wild violets and spring beauties.

It's suddenly a beautiful world . . . a wonderful place that calls for a complete change of pace in menu planning. It's time for the family to move outdoors for porch, patio or backyard meals . . . it's time for pretty dishes to match the season . . . for foods easy to prepare to make time for gardening, sunbathing, tripping, birdwatching or any other outdoor activity that beckons.

So in the mood of springtime, we offer the following recipes . . . a menu for outdoor dining . . . desserts luscious, pretty and easy to make . . . and a salad that's a meal in itself when served with rice and a beverage.

Scampi Bundles
2 pounds large shrimp (about 24 shrimp)
1 clove garlic
1/2 cup butter
1 teaspoon mixed herbs
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
freshly ground pepper
aluminum wrap

Remove shell of shrimp, leaving tail in place; devein shrimp. Mince garlic and add to butter with herbs. (Herbs may be purchased in packages, made especially for salads.) Let stand over heat for a few minutes until garlic is frizzled. Add lemon juice.

Arrange five or six shrimps to a serving on squares of 14-inch aluminum foil for broiling. Pour butter mixture over shrimp in each packet. Sprinkle each serving with salt and freshly ground pepper. Bring foil up over shrimp, double folding edges together. Double fold ends, turning them up.

Place on grill over medium heat and grill for 10 to 20 minutes. Serve packages on paper plates, letting each person open his own. Recipe serves four persons.

Hot Italian Bread
Italian bread with sesame crust
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
6 tablespoons softened butter
aluminum wrap
Slice bread with sesame seeded crust into one-inch diagonal slices.

Blend tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese into softened butter; spread on bread between each slice. Wrap bread loaf, sliced, in Turn to Page 2, Col. 1

Fruit-Nut Frosting

Make up a package of seven-minute frosting mix and fold chopped nuts plus raisins, figs or dates into one-third of the frosting. Use the nut-and-fruit mixture between two cake layers; cover the cake with the remaining two-thirds frosting.

In This No-Bake Pie, banana slices, sour cream and vanilla pudding mix make a happy combination. Chopped walnuts add a delightfully crunchy texture to the graham cracker crust.

This Is a Dish with Oriental overtones. In it are frozen green peas, pork strips, crisp celery, onions and mushrooms and a delectable sauce. Served with individual bowls of rice, Peas and Pork Oriental makes a wonderful one-dish meal.

Add remaining tablespoon oil to drippings. Add onion, celery and mushrooms. Cook slowly until vegetables are crisp-tender. Remove vegetables from pan.
Add remaining one and one-fourth cups water to cornstarch; stir until free of lumps, stir into drippings. Add bouillon cube, peas (partially defrosted and broken apart), and remaining half-teaspoon salt and remaining tablespoon sherry. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce is thickened and peas are just tender. Add cooked meats and vegetables, heat. Recipe makes about four servings.

New Coated Fiber Rugs

New vinyl coating on fiber rugs makes them better than ever. They look crisp and cool. They can be solvers. They stain floors in the had in summery colors, but the quality trends very unexpensively, as before, and add notable plus qualities of wear and easy care with the vinyl. The rugs aren't merely top surfaced with it—they take a vinyl bath to become deeply impregnated. The doll tea party upset can't be a disaster—vinyl coated rugs can't absorb liquids, nor stains.

MAILING DEATH NOTICES

I have received in the mail a death notice of an old family friend. Through our various moving around over the years, we had lost track of each other. The information was printed on a folded card picturing a stained glass window on the front. On the first inside page is the Twentieth

Third Psalm. The opposite page gives the name of the deceased, when and where he was born, the date and place of death, when and where the funeral was held, the name of the officiating clergyman and the place of burial. I have never seen one before. I wonder what you think of it and if this is considered correct.

Louise Davis Answers:

I think it is a splendid idea. Anything that is in good taste and after careful analysis is correct, even if it is brand new. There may have been no other way that you would have been informed of this man's death except by mail. Naturally there would be no need to send such notices to friends living in the same community as the deceased where obituaries and death notices are printed in the newspapers. People have a way of scattering to the four corners of the earth during a life time when contact is often delayed or lost. Those receiving the news of the death of an old friend would in no way be obligated unless they wish to send a sympathy note to someone in the family. I'm sure that many people have the horrifying experience of sending a Christmas or birthday card to a friend who had died during the year then find that someone in the family was obliged to write notes that John Doe died on October the 2nd.

Fish Cookery Now in Season

BY MARY-BETH KUESTER
Home Economist
Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.

With the family fishermen starting out the door with rod and reel in hand, you're probably ready for some new ways to serve the catch. While fresh fish fried golden brown are hard to beat, baked stuffed fish and gourmet specialties like Fish Fillet Mornay offer meal-time variety.

Refrigerator. Wrap lightly in move from heat, add chopped parsley.

If the catch is especially large, make use of the freezer. Prepare fish for cooking and wrapping. Lay fish on two or three slices of salt pork or bacon on oiled baking rack. Place rack in pan of ice. First freeze fish uncovered fish with melted fat. Bake in 450 degree oven, turning frequently, until fat from pan until fish is done.

Fish Fillets Mornay
1 pound fish fillets
1 pint water
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon whole mixed spices
1 slice lemon
1 slice onion
1/2 cup butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
dash cayenne
1/2 cup shredded cheese

Place part of water in electric fry pan or skillet. Add salt, spices, lemon and onion. Bring to boil, pour over fish fillets and simmer gently for 10 minutes. Remove fish from pan, drain, and arrange on oven proof platter or in baking dish. Cover with sauce and place under broiler until lightly browned.

To make the Mornay Sauce, melt butter in saucepan. Blend in flour carefully. Add milk gradually, stirring mixture until smooth. Add seasonings, then cook until sauce thickens, stirring constantly. Add cheese. When it begins to melt, pour sauce over fish.

Packing Tips

Never stand or sit on a suitcase to make it close. That kind of treatment can spring the locks. Carry less inside the bag instead.

If you have no handy case for a hand scrub brush, tooth brush, wash rag or anything else that might be damp when packed — wrap it in a piece of aluminum foil.

The Ailing House

Root Cellar Needs Air Circulation

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q My five-year-old house has a block basement. The root cellar is 8 feet by 12 feet with 6 foot head room, is located under a 4 inch thick reinforced concrete slab which serves as a patio. One door leads from the basement proper into it and there is no other opening for ventilation. Ground about the concrete slab slopes away quite abruptly. Produce from our garden keeps very well all winter in the root cellar, but the sand floor is very wet and moisture often freezes and drips from the ceiling depending upon whether we keep the door slightly open or not. There are no louvers in the door. How can we solve this problem?

A You've answered the question yourself. The problem is drawing off the dampness rising from the ground. Without adequate air circulation there is no place for this dampness to go, so it can't help making the entire space damp. One solution would be a ceiling fan which would draw moisture out through the slab into the patio. Another would be a constantly running fan placed on the floor and directed to the open door, or a good sized motor cut into the present door. Very effective would be covering the dirt floor with polyethylene plastic sheeting covering with a layer of concrete.

Q We had our house painted about a year and a half ago. White clapboards. Now the paint is blistered and some has peeled off showing bare wood. The last time we painted we installed air vents in the side and back. How do I paint over the exposed bare wood? If I paint over this with an aluminum paint then a white coat, would that help?

A Peeling paint is usually due to moisture working its way through behind the paint film, then pushing the paint off the surface. The source of the excessive moisture, roof leaks, faulty flashing, excessive house moisture, etc. should be eliminated. The air vents you installed will help moisture escape from the wall spaces. A first coat of aluminum paint over the bare wood will act as a vapor barrier to prevent moisture pushing off the paint coating.

Root Cellar Needs Air Circulation

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q I have white pine trim and molding in my club basement and would like to finish it natural, using white shellac. I have been told this method would cause the wood to darken considerably in a few years, in order to overcome this, I should use a flat white paint (using the wiping method) to bleach the wood to prevent its darkening. What method do you suggest to preserve the natural color of the wood?

Dried Leather Panels

Q In clearing out the attic, I came across a paneled leather screen. The leather looks dried out and brittle. Is there any way to re-stre it?

Repainting Clapboard

Q We had our house painted about a year and a half ago. White clapboards. Now the paint is blistered and some has peeled off showing bare wood. The last time we painted we installed air vents in the side and back. How do I paint over the exposed bare wood? If I paint over this with an aluminum paint then a white coat, would that help?

Efficient Broiling

Before you start cooking in the broiler, you remove the broiler pan and grid, then turn on the heat. Arrange food on the cold, ungreased broiler grid, then slide under the heat and set the timer. When the time has passed, turn the food and set the timer for the final cooking. Turn off the heat the minute the food has reached desired doneness.

PET DOCTOR
By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q My favorite fish's eye seems to be coming loose. I like this fish a lot. What should I do?
Kenne Wright, Willowick, Ohio

A This sounds like a disease that is often called Popeye disease because the eyes seem about ready to pop out. Actually the bulging eyes are the symptom of several different illnesses. If the fish's belly is bulging as well, you might suspect an infection of the liver. This sometimes responds to the addition of cod liver meal to the diet. Another cause could be an infection in the eye socket or in the orbit of the eye. Be sure to keep any sick fish in separate bowls or tanks, away from other fish. Wash your aquarium thoroughly, including the gravel plants and any decorations in the tank. The snop where you buy your fish can provide a special mild antiseptic solution you can add to the water. Grave of Finesser

It's the most handsome grave-stone in the cemetery, and the epitaph is simple and appropriate. "It looked like a good time to finesse."

There seemed to be a story in it, so I interviewed the widow. "He was a good man," she sniffled, "but he couldn't leave those finesse alone. And they finally got him."

She pointed to the wall, and I found myself staring at a bridge hand, neatly framed.

"He was South," the widow sobbed, "and he trumped the second club, led a trump to the

It wasn't, of course, but how did he manage to go down?

"He lost the heart finesse to the king, and West returned a diamond. Dummy's king won, and West managed to look rather sneaky."

Looks Innocent

And East managed to look innocent?

"Innocent and bored by it all. So my poor husband ruffed a club, drew trumps, cashed the ace of hearts, and led another diamond. When West played low, my poor darling put up dummy's queen."

Now I saw it all. East won with the ace of diamonds and led the ace of clubs. South still had to lose a second diamond trick.

"It wasn't such a good time to finesse." I remarked to the widow. "If he took the ace of hearts, drew trumps and led the queen of hearts he couldn't go down no matter who had the ace of diamonds."

"That's just what I told the jury," the widow agreed. "And they acquitted me without leaving the jury box. Do you have a regular partner?"

"Yes," I replied. All my regular partners are very poor marks.

That's how I pick them."

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You points.

Stem Length

The stem length is of prime importance in arranging flowers. When using a tall container, the longest flower stems should be one and one-half to two times its height. For a low container, the longest stems should be about one and one-half or twice the diameter. The other flowers should have shorter stems of varying lengths. The largest and darkest flowers should always have the shortest stems, for they appear heaviest in the arrangement.

or be provided for by their children or relatives? Aren't the local communities and welfare organizations capable of handling the problems of those aged persons who do not have children or relatives and are without Social Security or other adequate income?

President Kennedy is his message to Congress says that the projects will, "in most instances, be under the control of the states, local communities, and nonprofit institutions and organizations."

It will be asked, is it necessary for the Federal government to appropriate $50 million when the state and local governments collect annually about $50 billion in taxes?

Perhaps the real purpose is to set up another of the many forms of political control over local affairs which the crusaders for more and more centralized government constantly espouse.

Encourage Aid

The President's message to Congress says the project will "encourage and assist universities, professional schools and other institutions, organizations and agencies to increase their programs for training those people whom any grants to colleges or universities operated by churches are promptly opposed as unconstitutional? Many of the institutions taking care of older people are integral parts of the special problems resulting from churches of various denominations. But none of these barriers seems to be insurmountable to the administration's idea men. Every few days the mimeograph machines at the executive offices turn out pronouncements on "social welfare" on the theory that it is really the business of the government to care for the individual "from the cradle to the grave." Indeed, the phrases of the Kennedy inaugural about encouraging self-reliance and individual responsibility, rather than dependence on government, seem already to have become obsolete, although the same words are less than 18 months old.

County Clerks Meet Today

WAUPACA — Robert Backer, county clerk, attended the annual spring meeting of the county clerks today at Wautoma.

Attending the district meeting were the clerks from Juneau, Adams, Waushara, Marquette, Green Lake, Waupaca, Portage, Wood and Marathon counties.

The meeting is held prior to the annual state county clerk's convention June 19-21 in Sheboygan.

Discussions today centered on mutual problems and solutions.

Tiger, the Alley Cat, a Cast on Her broken right foreleg, manages to overcome her handicap to take care of litter of pups abandoned by someone in the Oakdale station of the Long Island Railroad. Tiger, about to become a mother herself, adopted the litter. Commuters shared expenses to have her leg cared for by a veterinarian.

Lawrence Says

Aid for Aged Under Attack From Columnist

Claims That Older Citizens Don't Need Federal Assistance

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Once upon a time a President of the United States made an inaugural speech in which he said:

"Ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

Once upon a time parents struggled through the years to give their children a comfortable home with proper care and an education that would enable those same children some day to earn their own livelihood. Then the grateful children would take care of their parents in old age. They felt glad to do so. Those who did not have children to assume this responsibility and who were unfortunate enough to become indigent were cared for by relatives and in some cases by the states, cities or churches through nursing homes.

Now comes a message from President Kennedy to Congress this week asking for a 5-year program, costing $50 million, for "grants to improve services for the aged."

The federal government thus seeks to assume the responsibility for all the problems of the aged—not just in medical care alone.

Provide Aid

A White House statement says the purpose of the grants would be "to provide federal assistance to help train personnel for work in the field of aging and to provide federal aid for pilot community planning projects and demonstration and research projects, to gain further knowledge about how the specific needs of older people can best be met."

This is a rather vague outline of how $50 million is to be spent. There is no attention being paid to the fact that this is a problem for the family of the citizen himself or, in emergency cases, for the local community. Suddenly, however, it is to become a federal function, and federal funds are sought to pay for it.

There are about 110 million persons over 21 years of age in America. Of these, about 17 million are 65 years of age or older. Is it conceivable that any considerable number out of the 17 million cannot provide for themselves

State Tries to Convince Board On Door Park

Land Sought Along Peninsula for New Europe Lake Facility

MADISON — The head of the state forests and parks system traveled to northern Door County today to try to persuade the members of the Door County board to cooperate in the state acquisition of land for a new state park in the scenic Europe Lake area on the tip of the peninsula. The site is specifically named as a desirable state park development in the new state Outdoors Recreation Act, which provides $5,000,000 a year for the expansion of outdoor recreational lands, but the legislature at the request of Door County spokesmen also provided that the conservation department cannot proceed with any new park project in Door county without the express consent of the county board.

What's Planned Six months ago the board indicated a coolness toward the idea, but the state is not now authorized by the legislature. Extensive physical development is not contemplated in the Europe Lake neighborhood which would probably involve the acquisition of some 2,400 acres of land, he said. The purpose of state ownership would be to preserve the natural scenic values of the shoreline, including the unspoiled shore, he said. The new Outdoors Recreation Act also listed for eventual state parks in Door County, both of which are scheduled for consideration by the legislature.

Poet Will Give Reading of Own Works at College

X. J. Kennedy, whose book of poems "Nude Descending a Staircase" received the Lamont Award of the Academy of American Poets last fall, will read his own works at 8 p. m. Monday in Riverview Lounge of Memorial Union, on the Lawrence College campus, sponsored by the English department. Kennedy, born in 1929 in Dover, N. J., is an instructor in English at the University of Michigan. In November, 1961, he succeeded Donald Hall as poetry editor for The Paris Review. Kennedy received the 1961 Bess Hokin prize of Poetry magazine, was 1960 Bread Loaf fellow in poetry, and has held a fellowship at Yaddo, work center for creative artists. With James E. Camp he is the author of a forthcoming English text, "Mark Twain's From-Riverview to the English," to be published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston. The reading is open to the public.

Surgery on Torn Tissue Relieves Cystitis Pain

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Can trauma in childbirth cause bladder infections which continue to plague the mother?
I doubt if there is any pain more disconcerting than the burning urgency and pressure associated with chronic cystitis.
How accurate are intravenous X-rays? Will X-rays alone tell the "whole picture?"—A.C.
Trauma or injury in childbirth isn't likely to cause bladder infection directly.
Rather what happens is that supporting tissues are torn or stretched, letting the bladder wall sag into the vaginal tract.
This is called cystocele, which I have mentioned rather often. It can result in incomplete emptying of the bladder and permit irritation (bacterial and chemical) of the lining of the bladder. This is cystitis. The consequences can include frequent or painful urination, inability to control urination (called "stress incontinence"), and a sense of general discomfort in the area.
Very often the whole trouble can be eased or ended by a "vaginal plastic operation" to correct the torn or stretched tissues. (I don't mean that it requires a "plastic surgeon" in the common sense of the word. Gynecologists, urologists, general surgeons all do this type of surgery.)
As to your other question: Intravenous kidney X-ray (known as an I.V.—or intravenous—pyelogram) gives considerable information about location, size and function of the kidneys.
It does not, however, give as much data as a "retrograde pyelogram," which also involves X-rays. In this, the inside of the bladder is first inspected directly with an instrument called a cystoscope.
Next, tiny catheters or tubes are inserted into each ureter, one of which leads to each kidney. Thus it is possible to test for infection or bleeding from each kidney separately. X-rays also are taken.
This whole procedure is much more elaborate and painstaking, and usually requires one or two days in the hospital, whereas the I.V. pyelogram does not. More time, more effort, more information.

hepatitis, do serum shots make a person immune? Why does it take so long to cure hepatitis? If it's contagious, how does it spread? —MRS. M.F.
First, there is no serum or vaccine that can give permanent immunity. Gamma globulin will provide a few months of immunity. Second, the time required for a cure depends on the severity of the individual case. This varies widely because there is no specific cure. All we can do is make conditions as easy as possible for the liver to "cure itself." The liver has remarkable power to do this. Third, contact with body secretions appears to be the major means of contagion, particularly the stool. Avoid kissing. Be sanitary in handling soiled clothing, bedding, body wastes. (Copyright 1962)

Illegal Duck Hunters Caught After Auto License Identified

CHILTON—An auto license number identification led to the arrest and conviction of two rural Chilton youths for illegal duck hunting.
Morris E. Davidson, 19, route 1, Chilton, was fined $20 Monday by Judge D. H. Seborna in Calumet County Court for shooting a duck out of season and his companion, Earl Oakley, 20, route 3, Chilton, was fined $20 for possession of waterfowl out of season. Both pleaded guilty of the charges brought against them by Keith Reichenbach, Calumet County conservation warden.
Their arrest resulted from an illegal hunt May 1 in the Brillion Marsh area. A sportsman saw the pair shoot at ducks and carry one duck to a car. He reported the license number to Reichenbach.

Hong Kong Has No Room for Red Refugees

Chinese Returned To Mainland by The Thousands

HONG KONG (AP)—Hong Kong police and British troops have rounded up thousands of refugees from hunger-ridden Red China recently and returned them to their Communist homeland.

Overcrowded Hong Kong doesn't have room for them. Other non-Communist nations won't take them.

Some had endured almost incredible hardships in their futile fight by land over rough terrain or by sea crammed below the decks of smuggler junks.

Border patrols caught many as they hid in the underbrush-covered hills on the Hong Kong side of the border.

Others were trapped aboard junks or picked up on side roads as they tried to make their way to the crowded cities of Hong Kong and Kowloon.

They were gathered at a police camp in the closed border area and then returned to border crossing stations in police vans and trucks. Their fate, after their forced return to Red China, is unknown.

Thousands Returned
Government officials refuse to say how many illegal immigrants have been returned. The conservative English-language Morning Post, quoting sources close to the police, said several thousand had been forcibly returned to China in the last week.

Residents said they saw 20 or more truckloads of men, women and children hauled to the border every afternoon.

Since 1948, the year the Chinese Communists mounted their final drive to seize control of the mainland, more than a million refugees have crossed the China border into this tiny British colony.

Most of them—and the children born since then—are still here. No other nation has been willing to accept them in significant numbers.

Hong Kong's population—600,000 at the end of World War II—has swollen to nearly 3.5 million. The colony has an area of only 391 square miles.

Government officials say the colony no longer has the capacity to care for the natural increase of its present population—91,000 more births than deaths in 1960—and the 10,000 or more refugees who try to sneak into the colony every month.

In the past six years, the government has built some 200 multi-storied apartment blocks and has resettled 440,000 refugees. There still are a half million living in board and tar paper shacks perched on the hillsides, 20,000 in similar huts on rooftops, an estimated 225,000 in substandard tenement quarters and more than 10,000 who sleep on sidewalks or stairways.

Angels Deal Foxes Ninth Consecutive Setback in ML

Cedar Rapids Opens Series At Goodland Field Tonight

BY JOHN C. PAULSTAN Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The struggling Fox Cities Foxes are finding their first Midwest League victory as hard to come by as a Russian "yes" vote in the United Nations.

The front-flying Quad-City Angels handed the Foxes their ninth consecutive loss — a no-decision, 14-6 decision — at Goodland Field Wednesday night.

Tonight, Fox Cities meets Cedar Rapids for the first time in ML competition, as it once more seeks that elusive first victory. Either Joe Rowden or Ed Watt (who has pitched the Foxes' only complete game this season) will face the Milwaukee Braves' farm hands at Goodland Field.

Last night the Foxes manufactured 12 hits to match the Quad Cities' total and their own

Stan Not Too Excited About 3,430th Hit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Stan Musial can't get excited about tying Horus Wagner as the National League's leading hit producer of all time, but The Man Musial said he's in better shape because he is eight or nine pounds heavier than he was in 1941.

"I think we're all in better shape because of the extra weight," he said. "I think we're all in better shape because of the extra weight."

"Some of us younger generation guys are showing we have just more than he weighed in 1941, as good players as some of those old timers," he reflected after sharing a clean single Wednesday that was the 3,430th hit of his 21-year big league career.

"Look at Williams, Wynn and Spahn, Feller and DiMaggio and Slaughter," he said. "These guys played 20 years or close to it, and they had good averages."

Musial passed the 3,000 mark May 13, 1958 in Chicago with a to right-center off Juan Marichal pinch-hit double. He got hit No. 3,429 off a low fast 3,429 a week ago then had 15 hit ball that Marichal wanted to keep away from the Musial power.

Musial was happy about the hit, but he had no picture of joy as he reclined on a rubbery table. "I don't get as much kick out of it as when we win," he explained. The Cardinals had lost 7-2.

"I enjoyed that 3,000th hit more than any of them. We won that game," he said. "It's not doing much to me when you lose."

En route to perhaps his best year since 1958, the 41-year-old Musial said he's in better shape because he is eight or nine pounds heavier than he was in 1941.

"I think we're all in better shape because of the extra weight," he said. "I think we're all in better shape because of the extra weight."

Hendley and Joe Adcock Are Injured

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves had another loss and two more injuries to diagnose today.

The Pittsburgh Pirates used every kind of a hit in the books to hand the Braves a 6-0 defeat Wednesday night. Milwaukee remained in seventh place but has dropped 11 games behind the first-place San Francisco Giants.

The Braves will attempt to salvage the last game of the series and the finale of the current road trip tonight, sending Bob Shaw, 31, to the mound against Bob Friend, 43. Milwaukee entertains the Mets in County Stadium Friday night.

The newly injured Braves are left-handed hurler Bob Hendley, Wednesday night's starter, who was hit on the left wrist by a pitch, and first baseman Joe Adcock, who pulled a thigh muscle.

Hendley had held the Pirates to a double and triple but no runs in the first three innings. He was hit by a pitch thrown by Pirate starter Al McBean in the fourth, but asked to stay in the game. The roof collapsed in the Pirate part of the fourth.

Stuart Doubles

Roberto Clemente opened the five-run assault with a single and scored on a double to left by Dick Stuart, who moved around to score on a pair of flies. Smoky Burgess then unloaded his second homer. After Bill Mazeroski singled Tony Cloninger replaced Hendley, Mazeroski moved to second on a passed ball and scored on a triple by McBean.

The pitcher crossed the plate on a three-base knock by Bill Virdon.

The Pirates ended the scoring in the fifth when Virdon socked his third home run over the clock on top of the scoreboard in left. Pittsburgh collected nine of its 11 hits off Hendley and Cloninger.

The only bright spot for the Braves was the relief work of Carl Willey, who allowed only two hits in three innings.

The victory went to McBean, who was hit in the sixth after twisting a muscle in his pitching elbow. He is 4-1. The loss went to Hendley, 2-3.

The Braves managed only five hits off McBean and reliever Diomedes Olivo, separated from only one hit in three and two-thirds innings. Two of the Milwaukee hits didn't leave the infield.

The Braves were not without their chances. They loaded the bases on three walks in the third but Hank Aaron was called out on strikes to end the inning. They loaded them up again in the fourth, but a pair of infield outs killed the threat. Two runners were left stranded in the sixth.

Mack Jones was Milwaukee's top batter with a pair of singles and a walk.

Giants Score 17th Win in Last 20 Starts

Dodgers Down Houston, Stay 4 Games Behind

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stan Musial got the big one. But Harvey Kuenn got THE big one.

And that's the story of another victory for the sizzling San Francisco Giants, who continued their headlong rush over all opposition Wednesday by whipping the St. Louis Cardinals 7-2 for their 17th victory in the last 20 games.

While the Cards were dropping into fourth place with their ninth defeat in 12 games, Musial snapped an 0-for-15 slump with a single in the sixth inning, the elusive hit that tied him with Horus Wagner for the most hits in National League history—3,430.

Musial, 41-year-old left-handed slapper, previously had set two league career records this season—runs scored and games played—and now holds or shares 49 NL records and 13 major league marks.

Has .350 Average

Kuenn's key hit won it for the Giants. The former American League batting king, who batted only .267 last year in his first season with San Francisco, upped his average to a league-leading .360 with the single that drove in Ed Bailey with the tie-breaking run in the seventh.

Orlando Cepeda then applied the crusher with a three-run homer, his 10th, as the Giants erupted for five runs to wrap it up.

The triumph kept San Francisco's lead at four games over the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers, who won their seventh in eight games 5-2 over Houston.

Cincinnati's defending champion Reds took over third place, 6 1/2 game back, by nipping Philadelphia 6-5 for their sixth straight victory. Al McBean and Diomedes Olivo combined for a five-hitter in Pittsburgh's 6-0 shutout of Milwaukee and the New York Mets beat Chicago's Cubs 6-5 in 11 innings.

Oshkosh Gains Finals Of Own Tourney; Marion Triumphs

Neenah and Oshkosh moved in to the finals of the Oshkosh district baseball tournament Wednesday as each recorded 5-0 victories. Neenah blanked Menasha and Chilton district meet with a 4-3, 6-inning victory over Reedville. Chiltonville topped in a Standings 7-6. Marion edged Tigerton, 4-2. Borduel defeated Oconto Falls, 7-0 in 8 innings. DePere shutout Freedom 4-0 and Preble routed Wausau 11-0.

Oshkosh stole nine bases in the win over Wausau. The Wolves added the Indians with four errors. Larry Reamer was the winning hurler and Jay Ross took the loss. Reamer had six strikeouts and Ross had four. Each walked seven.

Don Gotter doubled and scored on a throwing error in the extra-inning. Brillion victory over Reedville. It was the second extra-inning win of the tournament for the Lions. Jim Ross picked up the victory in relief.

Reedville lost a chance to score in the top of the eighth when Dick Diener tripped with one out but failed to score.

Marion racked up its 10th straight win of the season by out-dugging Tigerton. Keith Bell singled home two runs in the fourth and Bill Svehring singled home, Vada Pinson's double after a walk and Eddie Kasko's single knocked in the clincher for the

Slam The Door

The Cards got single runs off Juan Marichal (7-2) in the second and sixth, but he slammed the door thereafter. The Giants then won to work. They tied it in the sixth when Cepeda singled and Felipe Alou homered, then came up with five in the seventh. The victory was Marichal's sixth in succession as he became the major league's first seven-game winner.

The Dodgers stole five bases and converted four walks into runs to beat the Colts. Maury Wills scored one of two runs in the first on a wild pitch, then came across with the run that proved to be the winner in the third when he singled, stole second and, on the season by out-dugging Tigerton. Its reliability is probably its greatest single asset

When you build a quality truck, the inclination is to run around asking users what they think of it. We do quite a bit of this.

It's a funny thing. You'd think people would talk mostly about the mechanical features of the vehicle—the good ride, its power, the double-wall construction, cab comfort, or rough tailgate.

These things get comment, of course, but they're consistently outnumbered by expressions of satisfaction with the dependability of a Chevrolet truck. Its greatest single asset seems to be the fact that it does its job well day after day without a lot of fuss or attention—and that's what impresses people the most.

Quality is the key to reliability. The next time you have to buy a truck, call your Chevrolet dealer and make your money go farther.

Tribe Retains Lead On John Romano's Homer in Ninth

Senators' Dave Stenhouse Hurls 4-Hit Win Over White Sox

BY JIM HUCKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the helter-skelter scramble of the American League race it is not so surprising that the hottest pitcher of the moment is a not-so-youthful rookie with the club stuck in last place—Dave Stenhouse of the Washington Senators.

The 28-year-old right-hander, who waited eight seasons before his first big league start came along 11 days ago, scored impressively again Wednesday night with a four-hitter that cooled off the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

Washington has won but seven games and the unbeaten Stenhouse has accounted for three in his starting assignments. The sturdy New Englander was touched for an unearned run by the White Sox in the first inning but checked them the rest of the way and finished with a flourish, fanning the dangerous Al Smith for the final out with the bases loaded.

Protects Lead

Meanwhile, Cleveland protected its league lead by overcoming Kansas City 10-9 on John Romano's two-run homer with two out in the bottom of the ninth. New York and Minnesota stayed a half game behind with victories, the Yankees rallying for a 9-8 decision over Boston and the Twins clubbing Detroit 8-4. Los Angeles stopped Baltimore 3-1 behind the neat pitching of Ken McBride, Jack Spring and Ryne Duren.

Stenhouse, a graduate engineer from the University of Rhode Island, was a minor league of commendable if not spectacular success for seven seasons as a farmhand for the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds before the Reds dealt him to Washington this past winter.

After four brief relief appearances manager Mickey Vernon started him May 6 against the Yankees and he was credited with the 4-2 victory after a yield of three hits over seven innings. Next for the 190-pound 6-footer was a complete game six-hitter over Baltimore, 12-1. After 31 innings, he shows an earned run average of 0.87.

Romano connected for his homer against Kansas City reliever Diego Segui on a 3-2 pitch, with Don Dillard on second and two out in Cleveland's ninth. Woodie Held and Willie Kirkland also had two-run homers for the Indians, while Chuck Essegian hit one with none on.

Mantle Walks

Mike Fomies had two strikes on Mickey Mantle with two out in the Yankee ninth at Boston but the Bombers, trailing 7-6, ripped from behind and staved off their fourth straight loss. Mantle finally walked, Yogi Berra singled, then Elston Howard and Bill Skowron put the Yanks ahead with singles off Dick Radatz. Clete Boyer followed with a double against the Boston rookie, making it 9-7.

The Twins, winning their fourth in a row and ninth in 12 games, peppered Detroit pitching for 15 hits. Right-hander Camilo Pascual, gave up Tiger homers to Steve Boros, Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash but joined in the Minnesota attack with two singles and two runs batted in. Vic Power had three singles and three RBI for the Twins. Bob Allison also netted three hits, and Lennie Green smacked a pair of doubles.

McBride stifled the Orioles on three scratch hits but needed relief after putting two on with none out in the ninth spring was tagged for John Powell's two-out single, chasing in the Baltimore run. Then Duren struck out pinch hitter Gus Triandos.

Leon Wagner powered in the first two Angels' runs with a double in the first and his 10th homer in the sixth, and Lee

Thomas, routed Chuck Estrada with another homer in the sixth.

Lawrence Net Team Rated A Darkhorse

Conference Meet Slated for Ripon This Weekend

Ripon College is rated as a strong contender, and Lawrence is considered a darkhorse in the Midwest Conference tennis meet which will be held on the Ripon courts Friday and Saturday.

Carleton and Grinnell each scored 18 points in last year's meet to tie for the team crown. Ripon was runnerup with 17.

Both Ripon and Carleton will have defending champions in their lineup.

Carleton's captain, Dave Clark, was the No. 2 singles champion last year and has hosted all competition as the Carls No. 1 player this season. Sophomore Larry Hush of Carleton is unbeaten as the No. 2 man for the team.

Ripon was Ed Meyer and Bob Boyd back Meyer, of Neenah, was No. 3 singles champ a year ago and Boyd was No. 3 singles king. Other entrants for Ripon are Jack Ankersen, another Neenah product, and Jim Semrad.

Tom Krohn will compete in the No. 1 spot for Lawrence and Pat Jordan will enter at No. 2. Team eliminations were still going on today to decide the other two participants.

Competing for the two open places on the squad are Jon Keckonen, Paul Lange, Art Voss, Paul Valente and Al Blackburn.

The Vikes, coached by Pete Samuels, have a 6-3 record for the season.

New London's Dave Emerich set a Mid-Eastern Conference record of 12 feet, 8 inches in the pole vault and tied the 20.5 low hurdles mark in Tuesday's meet at Neenah.

Strong Surprise

Appleton proved a strong surprise in the high jump, besting a Neenah team led by M-E champion Dave Burton. Although Burton had the best height of the high jumpers (5 feet, 8 inches), the 3-man Terror team compiled a better total than the Rockets.

Foxes Suffer Ninth Defeat

Rose's single to center plated the final two of the game's biggest inning.

Paul Schall drove in four Quad-Cities runs with a double and a triple, while Rose chased in three. The Angels slammed six extra-base hits to a pair for the Foxes (a triple by Harsthorst and a double by George Ursuy. Foxes shortstop Bob Litschfield hit three singles.

The game, which attracted only 271 fans on a warm baseball night, took a wearying 3 hours, 26 minutes to consummate.

FOX TALES — Harry Dalton, Baltimore farm director, told the Fox Cities club by phone that he would do his best to provide some needed reinforcements soon.

Cal Ripken got the bounce for the first time at home as a manager; he was ejected by the plate umpire for a too-vehement dispute of a hit-by-a-pitch play in the third.

Reliever Steve Cosgrove joined Ripken as an outcast in the eighth when the arbiter took exception to a remark. . . . Carl Lundquist, of the minor league headquarters, sat in on the proceedings.

Snell and Burleson Duel Friday Night

Jim Grelle Also Entered in Coliseum's 'Miracle Mile'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Newraces. Grelle's best time is 3:59.9. Zealand's Peter Snell, the world's fastest miler, doesn't say it in so many words, but it was evident today the 23-year-old, curvities during the race.

But he added: "Usually I run against time but against a dangerous runner such as Burleson, I may run to win and let the time take care of itself."

"I would consider it a great honor to defeat Burleson."

Other relays' attractions include the only two 16-foot pole vaulters in the world, Dave Tork and John Telses, and two 9.2 100-yard sprinters, Frank Budd of Villanova and Bob Hayes of Florida A & M.

Snell declined to reveal what his strategy might be in the race and was evident observed. "Often you change tactics during the race."

Snell, who has a world record of 3:54.4 pending, was asked what his reaction was when he learned of the sudden entry of the University of Oregon senior in the race.

"It's fine," Snell replied without hesitation.

The 21-year-old Burleson, holder of the American record at 3:57.6, obviously was anxious to run against Snell.

"Yes, you're always anxious to meet the champ," the top U.S. miler told a newsmen Wednesday night.

Burleson expressed embarrassment that one man had been almost ignored in the race. He referred to Jim Grelle, the third sub-four-minute miler man in the world.

Felix Mantilla's bases-loaded single in the 11th after a pair of walks and a single by winner Jay Hook gave the Mets their second straight extra-inning triumph over the last-place Cubs. The New Yorkers had tied it in the eighth on Gil Hodges' inside-the-park homer, the 365th homer of his career. Glen Hobbie gave up Mantilla's hit, but the loss went to Don Elston.

Maris Injured in Attempt to Catch Home Run Ball

BOSTON (AP) — The extent of home run slugger Roger Maris' injury won't be known until the New York Yankees take the field against the Boston Red Sox today.

Maris, who set the record of 61 homers for a 162-game schedule last season, was forced out of Wednesday night's game in the fifth inning because of a muscle pull on his upper left thigh. Maris apparently hurt himself leaping against the low bullpen wall in right field trying to pull down Carl Yastrzemski's home run.

Trainer Joe Soares said the extent of Maris' enforced layoff, if any, could only be determined after a night's rest. Severe stiffness and soreness might set in, manager Ralph Houk explained.

All Christians Profess Gospel Of Love That Christ Brought

Resurrection Most Important Event on Church Calendar

BY DAVE MEADE
Chicago Daily News Service
JERUSALEM — In the human drama on earth, the story reached its greatest climax thus far when "the Word became flesh."
The man Jesus was God incarnate, who came because He "so loved the world. It was a turning JESUS: the gospel He taught and lived and died for.

Largely because of differences over these details, the Church is now split into more than 250 denominations. And in the process, they add, the Church lost much of the original power that caused it to "turn the world upside down."

point in history. The Western world started counting time from the year of His birth.

This view of Jesus' sojourn among men is held by most Christians today, although some disagree. But those who dispute the divinity of the Jew from Nazareth profess the earth-shaking gospel of love Jesus brought us.

His Resurrection

In the Christian Church calendar, the most important event was His resurrection. Believers around the world celebrate Easter as the day Christ demonstrated the everlasting life by rising from a grave hewn out of rock just outside Jerusalem.

Christianity is a religion about Jesus. It bears the name that was given Him: The Saviour. The Christ.

Its symbol is the cross on which He was crucified. And one of its famous creeds (Nicene) lays down the articles of faith by telling of the major events believed to have happened when Jesus was here in the flesh.

Critics of the Christian Church—both within and without that far-flung institution—say its concern for details about JESUS overshadows the religion of the gospel Jesus preached rests upon the basics of Jewish tradition and law: love for God and neighbor. The Ten Commandments are held high in Christian esteem, although Jesus didn't stress them particularly.

Because of this Judaic heritage, the Christian scriptures include the Old Testament as well as the New Testament. For some segments of Christianity, the Bible also includes additional writings known as the Apocrypha.

Account of Creation

The Old Testament gives an account of creation of the world and of man, of various ways God intervened in human affairs, of Jewish history from the days of Abraham until a few centuries before Christ.

The Apocryphal books are sometimes described as a link between the Old and New Testaments.

It is from the New Testament that Christians get their version of the gospel of Jesus, as well as accounts of events of His life, death and resurrection.

Jesus told all who would listen that they were sons and daughters of a heavenly Father: the loving, just, merciful, all-wise, all-powerful—yet personal—God of the family of man.

He said, "God is spirit, and those who worship Him must worship the Father in spirit and in truth." (John 4:24)

The Christian believes that the invisible, living God is about us and within us. "He is not far from each one of us, for in Him we live and move, in Him we exist." (Acts 17:28)

High on the list of Christian doctrines is that which looks upon man as something special, higher than the rest of the animals. That extra "something" is the Soul, the inner, invisible self that seems to be fundamental to our consciousness.

Survives Death

The Soul, coupled with the fragment of divinity in each person, survives the death of the body. Its existence cannot be proved, but that makes it no less real to the believer.

Most Christians also believe that God is three as well as one: God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit (or Holy Ghost). They emphasize that there are not three Gods—only one—but the Father, Son and Holy Spirit are of the same essence and are called the Holy Trinity.

The idea is impossible to understand with our finite minds, they maintain, just as the infinite, ultimate, absolute God is beyond our comprehension. It has to be accepted on faith. And on faith alone the Christian accepts Jesus the Christ as the Son of God.

The Holy Spirit, working in and through the believer, brings him into a loving relationship with his Father and his fellow men. And the spirit of God is freely given to all who accept him, again through faith.

This gift is the best evidence of God's grace, Christians believe. But you can only receive the gift voluntarily. We are made with a free will, and neither man nor God can force us to have faith in Him.

Conflicting Beliefs

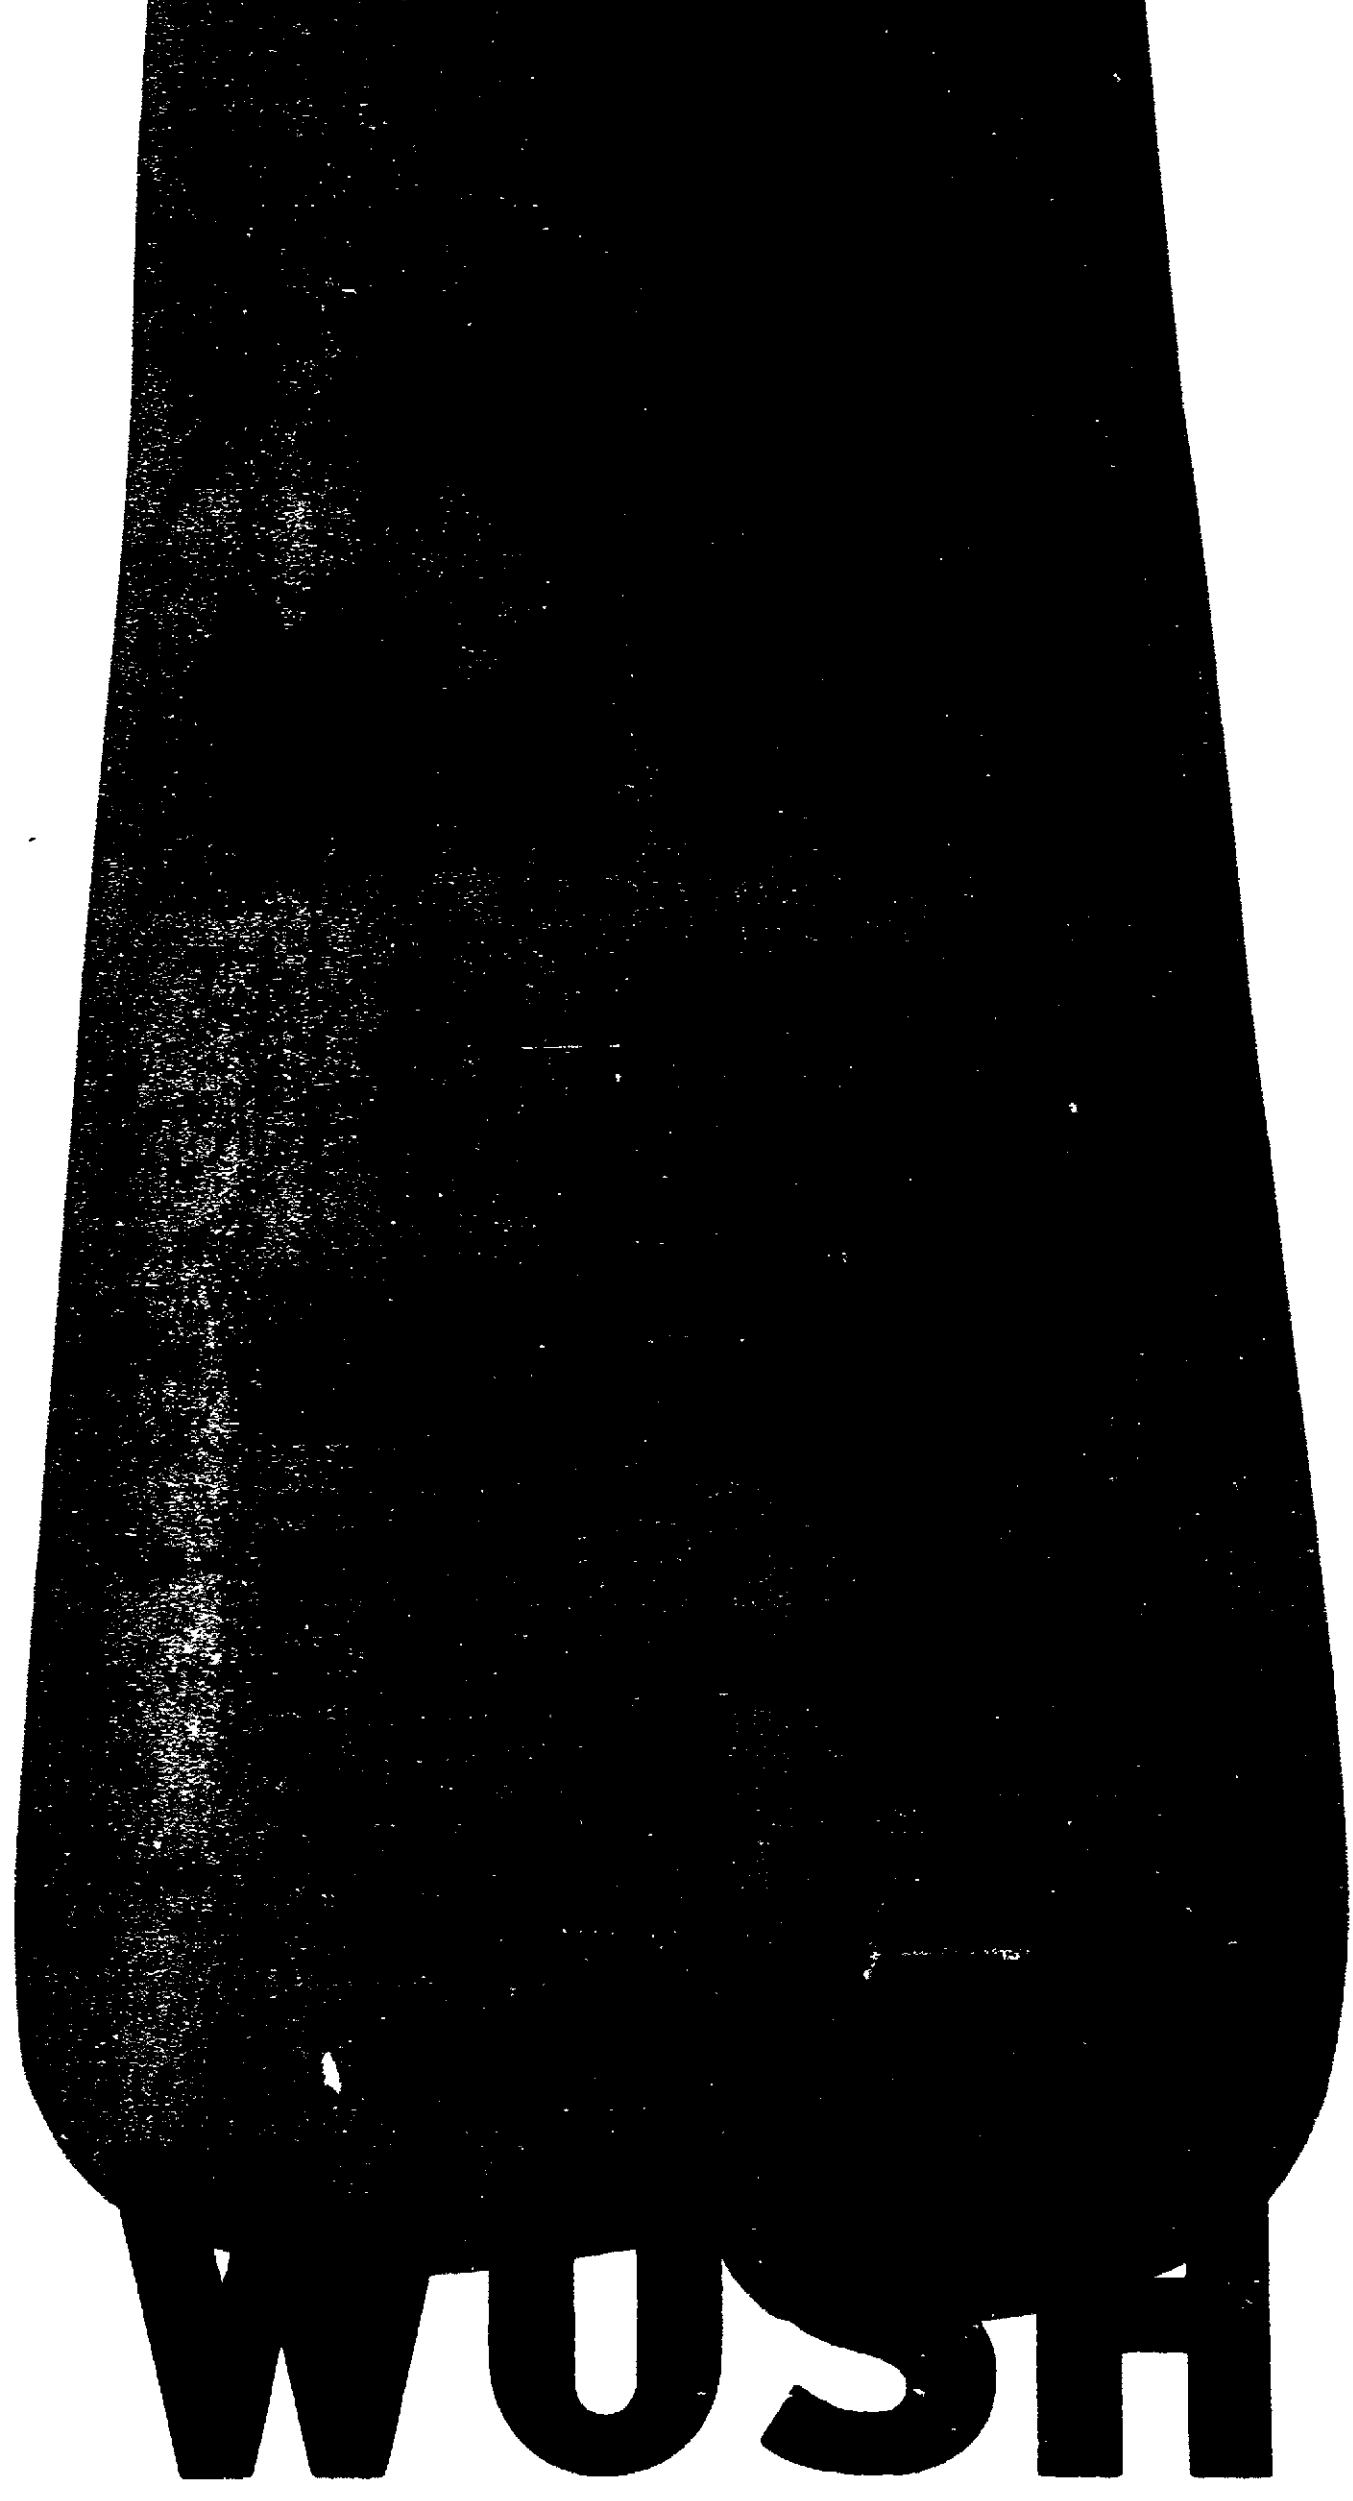

There are many beliefs in the great body of church dogma about which Christians don't agree.

Among them are such doctrines as those dealing with heaven and hell, angels and devils, creation, man's original sin in the Garden of Eden, Jesus' parentage, the place of Jesus' mother Mary in the galaxy of saints, baptism, the last supper as reenacted in the eucharist or mass or communion, the reason for the crucifixion as recalled on Good Friday, the nature of the resurrection and the structure of the church itself.

Most denominations and sects stress certain interpretations of these subjects—and of many, many others. A great variety of religious divisions also grew out of racial, national, political, social and economic differences. Each group generally believes its own way is the best way to salvation.

Woman Died of Heart Attack

Murder Case Victim Suffered Trauma, Pathologist Testifies

OSHKOSH — Mrs. May Gokey, 61, died of a heart attack brought on by an episode of acute trauma, Dr. H. M. Hillenbrand, Mercy Hospital pathologist, testified this morning at a preliminary hearing held before Judge Herbert J. Mueller.

Dr. Hillenbrand said there was evidence of sexual intercourse, but that he could not say whether it took place before or after death.

Mrs. Gokey was found dead in her home in the Town of Oshkosh at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, April 21. Charged with third degree murder is George Schuster, 38, Oshkosh.

Allan Cain, attorney for Schuster, held that Mrs. Gokey might have gone into a diabetic coma, and received bruises on her body as a result of a fall. Dr. Hillenbrand said this was possible, but not probable.

The hearing is being held in the courtroom of Judge Arnold J. Cain. Hearing was scheduled to resume at 1:30 this afternoon.

GOING STEADY IS FOOLISH!

TRUTH TOLD!

Some young people themselves who go steady are more apt to say that it is. When college men and women discuss the disadvantages of going steady, they say, "It ties you down," "It's monotonous," "People talk," "It's too hard on school work," and "It limits the span of your social contacts." Others agree that people get involved either emotionally or sexually than are those who date more casually. Generally, the wisdom of going steady depends on the two persons, how they feel about each other, and how ready they are to go steady and take responsibility for such a relationship.

Two Seniors To Present Chapel Recital

Two Lawrence Conservatory seniors will share a recital program at 8:15 p.m. today at Memorial Chapel.

Miss Muehlmeier Rafoth
meier and organist John Rafoth, who will present the 23rd student of Cesar Franck, 19th century recital in the current Conservaseries. The recital is open to the public without charge.

Miss Muehlmeier is from Middleton, a music education student from the studio of Bernard Lemoine. Rafoth, from Madison, French Suite No. VI in E Major and the best known of Mendelssohn's six preludes and fugues, No. 1 in E Minor.

Rafoth's organ program is built around four chorale melodies, two by Brahms, one by Bach and the fourth his own original setting, written in the style of the 18th century. Besides these, the organist will play a prelude and fugue by Johann Ludwig Krebs, 18th century organist-composer who was a student of Bach, and the well-known "Pieve Heroique" of Cesar Franck, 19th century French organist-symphonist.

20th Century-Fox Has Multiple Troubles

Despite Difficulties, Studio Plans $25 Million Construction at Malibu

BY JINGO

Good old Twentieth Century-Fox (or, as Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healey call it, "Penitentiary Fox") is having its share of troubles these days, what with Liz Taylor's Roman nip-ups and an operations loss of $22.5 million during fiscal 1961.

Jingo can almost find it in his heart to sympathize with Spiros P. Skouras, company president, when he says this has been a "difficult year" and that completion of the $25 million "Cleopatra" will "alleviate the great anxiety which has confronted the management . . . for many months."

But there's a bright spot in Skouras' future. Value of property the studio purchased at Malibu Beach in 1941 for $217,000 has skyrocketed. Recently the Fox brass laughed off an offer of $5 million for the land.

Instead of selling the property, the film company, which netted $25 million on the sale of some other land it owned at Westwood, plans to construct Fox City on the 2,300 acre Malibu site.

To be built at an estimated cost of $25 million, the new city would contain a new studio, a motel, 2,000 homes (to be priced at a and squandered its properties and hefty $50,000 apiece, and ear- assets by knowingly employing marked for the studio's stars) incompetents, inexperienced ex- and provision for business and ecutives to produce motion pic- industrial development. tures."

Impresario "is still mulling over the deal."

Jingo's guess is that Kenley will mull it over for a long, long time — perhaps indefinitely.

Dr. Kildare (better known as Dick Chamberlain) is good medi- cine for his studio's financial for- tunes. MGM-TV grossed more than $8.2 million for the first 25 weeks of this year, as against $3.7 million for a comparable pe- riod last year.

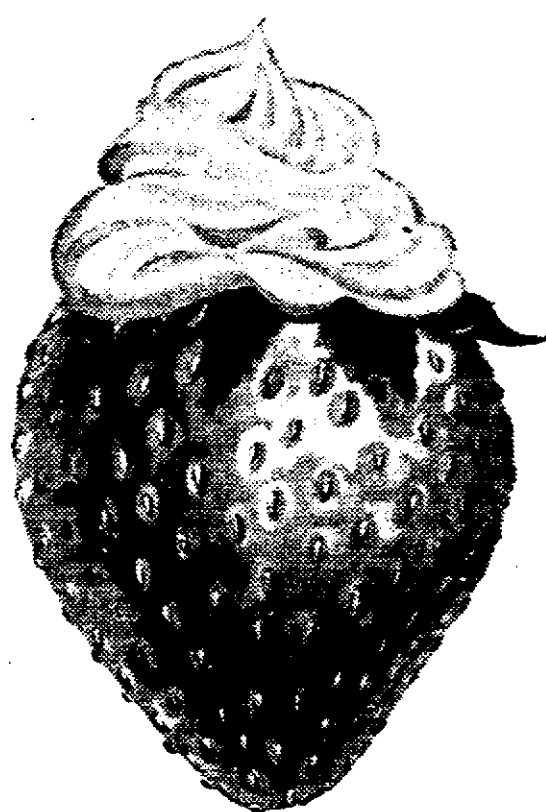

Jingo suspects that a lot of oth- er studios will turn to the same nostrum — but with somewhat room dramas next autumn.

To get out suds-proof body dirt like this...

your suds need the added cleaning power of CLOROX®

Weak bleaches simply can't do the job!

A man has a right to grumble when his "clean" shirts have dirty-looking neck-rings. Detergents can't get out all this oily body dirt without tiresome hand-scrubbing. Weak bleaches won't do the job, either. But Clorox bleach gives your suds the added cleaning power they need to remove this stubborn dirt. For a cleaner family wash, add Clorox every time!

CBS Reports Repeats Look At Germany

BY TV SCOUT
9-10 (Channel 2)—CBS Reports repeats one of its better documentaries, "East Germany—The Land Beyond the Wall." This was made by CBS' Bonn correspondent, Daniel Schorr, who persuaded the East German government to let him bring a camera crew in to photograph a city of their choice, and they chose Rostock.

7-7:30 (Channel 11)—The Donna Reed Show has a little bit of fluff and the main excuse seems to be to provide a plot in which Paul Peterson (Jeff) can sing. The plot involves his infatuation with a girl, and the Junior Prom to which he doesn't take her. At the prom, he is conveniently asked to sing.

7-8 (Channel 2)—Frontier Circus introduces us to yet another circus family in which jealousy is a step-sister. Nehemiah Persoff is the head of the Durando clan, a trapeze act. It consists of his wife (Marguerita Cordova) and her sister (Amita Sands). But there is also the ghost of the girl's father and that green-eyed acrobat mentioned earlier.

7-8:30 (Channel 4-5)—There's a touching story of a deaf boy on Dr. Kildare this week. Young Rory O'Brien plays Tad, who is first brought to the hospital by his mother (Joanne Linville) after he accidentally swallows some household insecticide. His case is complicated because he cannot speak; his mother has steadfastly refused to let him be examined. But Kildare, of course, doesn't let that stop him.

8-8:30 (Channel 11)—My Three Sons, for some reason, shows an early episode this week. It is not a repeat, but it dates to the beginning of the season, for the boys are just returning to school. Robbie (Don Grady) meets and hero-worships a big man on campus (Ryan O'Neal), who isn't quite as heroic as Robbie believes.

8:30-9 (Channel 11)—The Law and Mr. Jones invents a fascinating character, but doesn't do right by him. David Macklin plays young Wayne Avery, a brilliant teen-aged son of a deceased lawyer. The youth has become the legal adviser to juvenile gangsters and gangs. His mother (Meg Wyllie) persuades James Whitmore to talk to him, but, instead, Macklin wins a debate from Jones in a long and well-played scene.

8:30-9 (Channel 2)—The Zane Grey Theater repeats a psychological Western called "Interrogation." Robert Ryan and Harry Townes are captured by the Mexicans and it's a problem which one will crack.

9-10 (Channel 11)—The Untouchables creates a unique character in the churchgoing niece of a thug. When Uncle Chiz is shot, he manages to gasp out some words of wisdom to plain Ginnie (Phyllis Love), and also tell her the value of his ledgers. She tries to peddle these ledgers to the Group, while Eliot Ness sneaks around furtively and there begins a lengthy session of dangerous double-dealing.

10:20-12 (Channel 4-5)—Tonight's guests are Damita Jo, Frank Fontaine, Doodles Weaver and Paula Stewart—wife of the host (Color).

Education Unit Elects Officers

HORTONVILLE — The Hortonville Education Association held its final meeting of the year and elected its officers for the school year 1962-63.

Elected were president Robert Newhouse, vice president Kenneth Bradway and secretary treasurer Carol Greutzmacher. Committee chairmen elected are welfare committee Jack Rickaby, social committee Ernest Broen, man professional committee Eugene Riedl, legislative committee, Evelyn Hince, and health and safety committee, Russell Hildebrand.

The final social event planned for the association is a picnic May 24.

Graduation Exercises

BLACK CREEK—Eighth grade graduation exercises will be in the school gymnasium May 28. James Retson principal of the Madison School, Appleton, will speak. Student speakers will include Douglas Dudek, welcome; Barbara Nelson, class history; Lorrie Mielke, appreciation and Wayne Sigl, the future.

The Rev. Geunter Hegele, 33, earned the billing of Pop Tune Pastor recently on Radio Munich when he made his debut on national television in West Germany. The German Lutheran minister was an exchange student at Wartburg Theological Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa, in 1954-1955 and spent the Christmas holidays of 1954 at the home of the Rev. Fred Ohlrogge in Marion, Wis. An occasional disc jockey in Munich, Pastor Hegele defends popular music but decries bad pop tunes.

Buckley Cites Need For Finance Chief

Comptroller Broehm Admits Appleton Report Shows Only Part of Funds

Ald. George Buckley proposed to the Appleton council Wednesday that the city hire a full-time director of finance.

"Appleton's budget rapidly is approaching the $10 million figure," Buckley said. "Certainly no private corporation in the world, even one-tenth the size of Appleton, could begin to operate efficiently without having someone in the office whose full-time job it would be to watch over the company's finances and constantly recurring financial problems."

Ald. Dorothy Stullings asked why City Clerk-Comptroller Eliden Broehm's monthly reports show no revenue from property taxes, and why the parking meter revenue account had no receipts in January and March.

Not full report, Broehm said the Post-Crescent this morning that his comptroller's report is not a full report. It only shows the money parcelled out to him by City Treasurer Ray Feuerstein to keep each expenditure account solvent.

Feuerstein said he disburses the bulk of city money and invests it for the city. Last year interest totaled $78,000, he said.

Fuerstein said he disburses the money to the various accounts and the other independent governmental units, such as the school board, as they need the money.

Broehm said that to get the complete financial picture of the city it is necessary to place his comptroller's report and the treasurer's report side by side. Figures from the treasurer's report should fill in the zeroes in the comptroller's report, he said.

Broehm's report shows only money received from Feuerstein, expenditures and what was budgeted. Feuerstein's report shows total revenue.

Using both reports and doing some of their own mathematics would give aldermen the complete picture, the two men said.

Broehm said he cannot show total revenue in his report because he doesn't receive the money. He gets only what he needs for each account.

He said there is no way he can show total revenue and give the city's complete financial picture in his comptroller's report and keep the accounting correct.

Feuerstein said if he gave each account its full budgeted amount there would be no money left to invest.

Mrs. Stullings wanted to know why the council gets a separate accounting of parking meter revenue from the lots, but not on what is taken in from street meters.

Feuerstein said that aldermen can find out what the street meters bring in each month by subtracting the amount taken in on the lots from total meter revenue in his monthly report. The separate report on the lots is done by special resolution, he said.

Similar Resolution Ald. Buckley's proposal and resolution for a finance officer is similar to one submitted to the council in November, 1953. That resolution was approved 17 to 3.

But the council never took action to establish a separate finance officer or to hire a comptroller.

Then in September, 1953, the council passed a resolution.

District Attorney, Sheriff, Coroner To Be Investigated

Duplication of Efforts Charged by County Committee

The coroner may be overstepping his authority and the sheriff the county was paying for duplication of effort when the coroner, fulfilling their duties in the investigation of deaths, some county supervisors claimed today.

The Committee on Courts and Administration of Justice decided to study investigations conducted by the district attorney and the sheriff's department.

The two agencies may be asked to produce investigation reports of an accident in the Town of Ellington May 7 in which a 15-year-old Seymour High School girl was killed.

Committee member Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, said the committee will try to determine if the sheriff and district attorney are competent investigating agencies for the county.

Kloes said criticism has been directed toward Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps in that he is overstepping his authority as coroner in conducting investigations which other agencies should be heading.

Committee Chairman Gerhard R. Hunsam, Horton, said the committee had asked for a ruling on the coroner's duties and Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath ruled that a coroner is to determine only medical causes of death and is allowed to call upon medical specialists to make his conclusion.

Ponath also ruled the coroner can act as an investigator in place of a sheriff or undersheriff if none is available.

R. Hunsam said the coroner was duplicating efforts of the Outagamie County sheriff and district attorney when he conducts investigations such as he conducted Wednesday into the Judy Lee Schintz death.

The Wednesday inquest was a joint investigation of the district attorney and the coroner, Bernard Kemps said. The inquest discovered the girl died in a car accident after the driver and several passengers had attended a brought out in a careful blending of voices.

In "Which Is the Properest" Cook, Lawrence College student, the chorus left no doubt that it was "tonight." The song showed fine contrasts between light and dark, the most heavier voices.

The chorus struck a more serious note with "Hear Lord" by Tchaikovsky-Tolmaga and "Exultate Deo" by Scarlatti-Greyson.

Full, Rich Tone The orchestra reached its peak performance in "Andalucia" by Lecuona, with a full, rich tone.

From march music at its best and good expression, William F. in "Old Comrades March" by Siebers directed the orchestra.

Teicke to the relaxing, melodic In "Concerto Grosso" by Handel, selections from Henry Mancini's "Mr. Lucky" they had the audibility of itself and the music lacked the sense with them. But it was in unity of "Andalucia" and the concluding finale to "Symphonic Theme from Exodus" by Shostakovich that Ernest Gold.

The concert band proved beyond question its ability, both individually and as a unit.

Choral Work The chorus, directed by Lester Scholz, presented good reason for the current popularity of folk results of a year of hard work.

Songs in a group of selections Unfortunately, the young musicians from several countries. The choral played to a sparsely-populated, often quaint and amusing lated auditorium.

The Appleton High School music department presented the results of a year of hard work in the annual spring concert Wednesday. The program included selections by the chorus, orchestra, Terror band and concert band. Backstage before the concert were, from left, Thomas Derber, band member; Ellen Struck, in the chorus, and Gil Buettner, orchestra member.

Curiosity got the better part of Steven Stroess, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Linden Stroess, 744 Murray Ave., Wednesday when he became stuck for 40 minutes in a grocery conveyor belt at the Treasure Island store, W. College Avenue.

Firemen, sheriff's department officials, store personnel and two drivers from Larry's Ambulance Service helped free the youth after he put his hand between a iron net safety guard on the belt and it became wedged between two rollers.

A Fond du Lac man, A. L. Necoand, standing near the boy, witnessed the accident and immediately shut the machine off. The belt is used to carry grocery parcels to an outside loading ramp.

Treasure Island store manager, Al Sommer, said the accident was the first of its kind in the store. He said between 40 and 50 shoppers were attracted to the scene of the accident.

Sommer said the store will extend a covered guard about 1 1/2 feet on the machine to prevent further accidents. Sommer said an average sized person could not have put his hand through the safety screen where the youth became entangled.

A stock boy, Gary Brier, held the youth while workers cut through a metal frame and loosened the roller Appleton firemen administered oxygen for five minutes. Steven was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where his condition today is good.

Milk Processors Quarrel Over U.S. Marketing Order

Large Handlers Want Utilization Lowered; Small Dairies Argue Change Would Cost Them Money

BY HARRY KURTZ
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A proposed change in the Federal Milk Marketing order for north-eastern Wisconsin brought lengthy testimony, contradictory arguments and an occasional temper flareup in a hearing at the Conway Motor Hotel in Appleton Wednesday.

The proposed change would lower Class I utilization by producers from 50 to 40 per cent. A decision on the change is expected in 60 days.

Lined up in support of the change were Consolidated Badger Cooperative, Shawano; Fairmont Foods, Inc., Green Bay; Pure Milk Products Cooperative, Fond du Lac, and Frigo Brothers, Cheese Co., Lena.

Opposing the measure were Gordon Raddatz, representing four Oshkosh dairies, Lamers Dairy, Kimberly, the Michigan Milk Producers Association, and the Manitowoc County Milk Producers Cooperative.

Basically the arguments were this: Those favoring the change said it was necessary if they were to continue to accept milk from all

Explanation Of Federal Plan Hard

There's more to a milk marketing order than meets the eye. Most consumers and few producers really understand what the order means and what its effect is.

Here are the principal terms used in explaining the sale and process of milk.

1. Producer—the farmer whose cows give the milk he delivers to his market, which is called the

2. Processor or handler—The firm which gets the milk ready for the consumer, either by bottling it or making it into cheese, dried milk, butter, ice cream or some other dairy product.

3. Market-wide pool — The arrangement by which all handlers pay all producers within a specified area the same price for Grade A milk.

4. Utilization — The use to which the raw milk is put. The "value" of the milk is set under a federal milk marketing order according to the ultimate use—that is, fluid milk sold in bottles has one value, milk made into cheese, butter or other milk products, has another "value."

5. Producer-settlement fund — Money used to equalize payments among various handlers.

6. Milk marketing order — federal rules which determine the amount the producer receives for his milk. They are issued to insure an adequate supply of pure, and wholesome milk and create orderly marketing conditions.

7. Class I milk—sold to the consumer as bottled fluid milk.

8. Class II milk—used in the manufacture of other dairy products "sometimes called Class II or III or manufacturing milk."

Once the producers in a specific area have decided to go under the milk marketing program, the Department of Agriculture, using various economic factors, determine the "value" of Class I and Class II milk for that area, usually adjusting the "value" monthly.

By determining how the milk is used by the handlers, the government arrives at a "blend" price for the entire area affected. The "blend" price is what the farmer receives for his milk, and it goes up when a larger percentage of the total milk produced

Village Board Awards Bid On Squad Car

Little Chute Will Seek Applications For Life Guards

LITTLE CHUTE — The village board Tuesday night accepted low bid of Van Zealand garage for a new squad car. That firm submitted a bid of $530 and the old squad car.

Members voted to advertise for applications for life guard at Doyle Park. Both male and female guards are needed. Applicants must be at least 16 years of age and hold a Red Cross life saving certificate.

Approval was given to the purchase of a load of blacktop from the county. This material will be used for street patching projects throughout the village. The park committee was authorized to purchase a small rotary lawn mower and a 20-gallon hot water tank for use at the sewage disposal plant.

Sewer and water permits were issued to Stillman and Spierings for a building on Vandenberg Road, Norbert Van Bostel for a home on McKinley Street and N. Heitnas for a home on W. Main Street.

Cab Driver Unhurt in Train Crash

A 25-year-old Appleton cab driver escaped with cuts and bruises about 5 a.m. today when his car collided with a southbound Chicago and North Western freight train at the crossing on N. Oneida Street, near E. North Street.

Police said the car driven by Dale Milheiser, 26 Garden Court, was demolished as it was hurled 65 feet from the point of impact. Milheiser was treated and released from the emergency room at Appleton Memorial Hospital. Hospital officials said Milheiser had cuts above the left and right eye.

Milheiser said he did not see the train coming nor hear the crossing signals as he turned left from North Street onto the Oneida Street train tracks.

The engineer of the train, Emil Tasch, Fond du Lac, told police he knew the signal at the crossing was working when the train and car collided.

Named as Co-Valedictorians of the 1962 graduating class of Hortonville Union High School are Karen L. Sykes, right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sykes, route 1, Appleton, and Doris M. Learman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Learman, route 1, New London.

Road Surfacing Levies Okayed

Combined Locks Property Owners to Pay 60 Per Cent

COMBINED LOCKS — The village board at a public hearing Tuesday night approved assessment for permanent surfacing on four streets in the community, with the village to pay 40 per cent of the total cost while property owners abutting streets will be assessed the remaining 60 per cent.

Total cost of the improvement program to be carried out by Badger Highways of Menasha was $28,795. An assessment rate of $2.89 per lineal foot was established for work on Park and Rogers streets while residents living in Kamps Court will be assessed $2.29 per lineal foot and those living on Darboy Road will be assessed $3.28 per lineal foot.

Rates differ due to the difference in the cost of grading and fill prior to installation of the permanent road. The Darboy Road project, being shared with Kimberly since it is the dividing line between the two communities, includes charges for concrete curb and gutter.

Sturgeon Bay Study Cited At Food Forum

UW President Tells Washington Meeting Of Potato Work

BY RAY PAGEL
Post-Crescent News-Service 5 1/2 p.
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Potato research work at Sturgeon Bay was held up at the world food forum here Tuesday as an achievement in cooperative scientific research.

The project was described by Conrad A. Elvehjem, president of the University of Wisconsin. As one of the principal speakers at the opening day of three-day international conference he discussed the role of science in the development of agriculture.

Tuesday's sessions, devoted to agriculture in the United States, drew some 2,000 persons. High-ranking educators and officials from nine countries were scheduled to review the world-wide food situation today. The food forum will conclude Thursday with projections and challenges for agriculture in the next century.

Explain Work

The potato research, Elvehjem explained, is conducted by the peninsula branch experiment station of the University of Wisconsin. Scientists from other states and from the U.S. Department of Agriculture collaborate in running the tedious but often fascinating tests on wild potato plants sent from all corners of the earth.

Although President Kennedy was the scheduled speaker for the banquet Tuesday evening, the White House announced he was unable to appear because of a regrettable mixup in signals. Orville Freeman, the secretary of agriculture, filled in for him.

Freeman stressed the contributions farms have made to the general American economy. As an example he said increased food supplies at relatively low prices mean wage earners need to use less of their incomes to buy food.

He called upon American agriculture to assist the needy nations of the world. This assistance, he declared, will eventually mean a stronger America.

Winneconne Fights Student Drop-Out Plight

School's Successful Program Reviewed in National Journal

WINNECONNE — Meeting the ever-increasing problem of student drop-outs before graduation as handled in the Winneconne Community Schools is reviewed in a special article in the May issue of the "NEA Journal," publication of the National Education Association.

The article, a research project on the nation-wide problem of school drop-outs, discusses successful programs in selected schools which are designed to decrease the number of students who do not receive a high school diploma.

Statistics in some states indicate that approximately 25 of every 100 students entering the ninth grade will fail to graduate. Michigan has attempted to attack this serious problem through an early identification and counseling of potential drop-outs.

Six Schools Reviewed
Six successful schools whose programs for meeting the drop-out problem are reviewed are high schools in New York City, Kansas City, Detroit, Racine, Lane County, Oregon, and Winneconne. Prin. V. J. Wadleigh and Miss Edna Palecek, guidance director, wrote the Winneconne story which describes the individualization of student personnel and guidance services, personalized student schedules and programs of vocational training providing marketable skills for some students.

Firmly believing that the drop-out problem is controllable to some degree, Winneconne has attempted to meet the problem by individualizing each situation as circumstances dictate. The efforts made thus far have been successful in increasing school holding power at Winneconne.

Explanation of Federal Idea Very Complex

ced is bottled for fluid milk consumption and down when a larger percentage goes into manufactured milk (during flush seasons).

All Get Same Price
All Grade A milk producers within the market wide pool receive the same price (the blend price) for their milk, regardless of where, or to whom, they deliver it or what it is used for.

Under the federal marketing order for northeastern Wisconsin handlers now must utilize at least 50 per cent of the milk as Class I — that is, bottled fluid milk. Several large handlers, who use milk for various purposes, asked for the special hearing Wednesday because they want the Class I requirement lowered to 40 per cent. Operators of many small dairies which produce only bottled milk, oppose the change. The two arguments go this way:

Production of Grade A milk has gone up faster than the consumer demand for bottled milk. Large handlers with diversified operations, such as Consolidated Badger Cooperative, want the requirement changed so they will have to use only 40 per cent of the milk as Class I milk instead of 50 per cent.

Percentage Fluctuates
They maintain the change is required or they will be forced to tell some Grade A producers they can't take their milk. In the flush season, more of the milk goes into other products such as ice cream, cheese, powdered milk. The percentage of the total milk handled going into fluid milk goes up when production is lower.

Small dairy plant operators produce only bottled milk. In the flush season they sell their surplus for whatever they can get for it. When production is low they may be forced to buy milk for bottling from large handlers such as Consolidated.

The hitch comes in the way the federal marketing order sets the blend price paid to farmers. All Grade A milk producers are paid at the same rate, say $3.45 a hundred pounds. Handlers pay according to utilization.

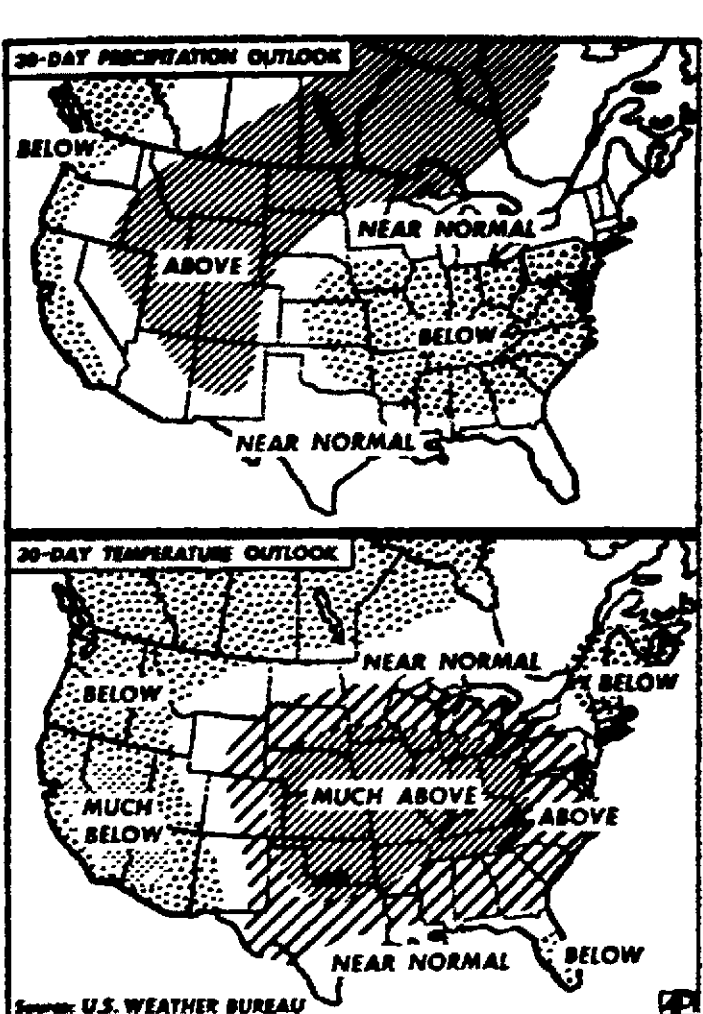

Utilization reports are made monthly. If the utilization "value" for milk in the plant is more than the blend price of $3.45, the plant pays the added amount into the "pool." If the firm's utilization value is less than the blend price it still pays the producer $3.45, but is reimbursed from the pool.

This means that small dairies which use most of their milk as Class I constantly are paying into the pool. Large diversified producers which use a large part of their milk as Class II are apt to be reimbursed often from the pool. This sounds confusing but it is well to remember that all handlers pay the same price for all milk used in each class. Therefore, the equalization payment is in fact, producer money for distribution to producers.

The proposed amendment to the order small dairy operators feel would aggravate what they already feel is an injustice. They say the money is drained from their business and goes into the larger firms which are able to use the less "valuable" milk to make a profit.

'All Won't be Bought'
Spokesmen for the small dairies claim the change would tend to eliminate competitive buying and because utilization factors help determine the price paid to farmers, actually would lower the amount farmers would receive for their milk.

Large handlers argue that the change is needed to assure a market for all Grade A producers, because they won't be able to buy all the Grade A milk on the market unless they are allowed to use more of it as Class III milk.

an increase in production from their producers. Those opposed said the change would cost them money, and that money paid into the pool would benefit the large handlers but cost the small handlers money.

The hearing opened with a statement from the Michigan Milk Producers Association which claimed the hearing was not an emergency and asked for either a postponement or recess in order to file proposals for changes.

The request was denied by hearing examiner Benjamin M. Holstein of Washington, D.C.

Speaking for Consolidated Badger, Neil McBeth backed the change. He cited increased production and special problems in areas served by Consolidated.

'Producer and Handler'
McBeth pointed out that vacation areas of northern Wisconsin had a heavy demand for fluid milk during the season of low milk production. He also cited know if the change would result in a change in the blend price. Miller was cross-examined at length by Van Hoof, Lamers, U.S. Department of Agriculture officials and others.

Talbert R. Connelly, representing Frigo Butchers, backed modification of the amendment.

Raddatz, representing four Oshkosh dairies, opposed the change. He stated that the amendment would encourage plants to add new patrons, that the blend price would be lowered and that Oshkosh handlers would not get funds back from the pool.

Little for Cheese
"I don't feel we would be benefited by the order change," Raddatz stated.

Richards Lamers of Lamers Dairy, Kimberly, spoke for himself and five producers. Lamers stated that his firm used 91 per cent of its milk for fluid sales with the surplus being sold to a cheese factory.

Lamers said the proposed change would hurt his business and the business of 48 to 50 other small handlers in the market or der area.

"This would take money from small producers and give it to large handlers. These producers earned this money they deserve to have it," he said.

Must Pay Premium

"Small handlers have to pay premium on blend price. The money earned through the sale is turned over to large producers. This further eliminates the competitive edge," Lamers charged.

The net effect on us, Lamers said, will lessen our buying power. It will put the squeeze on the small handler and he may lose his market.

Lamers backed an individual pool arrangement and said the order change might mean a lower blend price for his producers.

Under cross-examination Lamers said he was opposed to the federal milk marketing program considering the equalization pool. He also objected to the market wide pool.

Dale Long representing the Michigan Milk Producers opposed the change saying it would harm milk producers in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. This would penalize our producers and would increase the supply of milk he said.

Testimony to be Studied
Spokesmen for the Manitowish County Milk Producers said they had no objections to the order change on bottling plants, but objected to the change for supply plants.

Driver in Accident Killing Black Creek Girl Admits Drinking

The driver and passengers of a car which went off the road May 7 and killed a 15-year-old Seymour High School girl said in a coroner's inquest Wednesday they had been drinking wine and beer before the accident.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps and Dist. Atty. Nick Schaefer said a perjury charge may be filed against one of the passengers in the car who denied there had been drinking before the accident.

Miss Judith Lee Schlutz, Black Creek, died about 2 a. m. when she was pinned between the car and a tree after the car went over a guard rail. The complete testimony will be reviewed by the result to be announced where the car left the road off State 76 and tipped on its side. None of the other four persons in the car were injured.

Gerald N. Voeks, 17, route 2, Appleton, the driver of the car, testified he had seen a deer dart across the road seconds before he drove the car off the highway. Voeks testified he had from five to 10 glasses of beer at his apartment before the accident.

Voeks said the group bought a quarter barrel of beer Sunday, but would not say where he got Kemps said a 16-year-old passenger in the car may have perjured himself when he testified he saw no beer or drinking while he was at Voeks apartment. Witnesses at the hearing were kept in a separate room outside the hearing until they testified.

Kemps said a medical test also showed the dead girl had been drinking prior to the accident. Outagamie County parclman trying Partika testified he could not determine how fast the car was going when he investigated the accident. He said he saw no signs of animals near the accident, but knew deer roamed the area.

Partika said the curve could be negotiated at 55 miles an hour with the result to be announced where the car left the road ed of a dangerous curve.

Fancy Cut-Outs Can be Used As Folder for Greeting Card

BY CAPPY DICK

A method of making fancy paper cut-outs is today's fun-project. The cutouts may be used as decorations for books, as designs to hang on the wall or as greeting cards decorations.

Experiment with a piece of white paper. Use a ruler to draw a border around the paper, half an inch from each edge. With pencil, lightly draw a tangle of lines within this border as in Figure 1. Cause the lines to twist and turn and cross each other, covering the paper with irregularly-shaped sections. The next step is to cut out some of these sections to create a lace-like design.

Use your pocketknife. Figure 2 shows how to do it. Place a piece of thick cardboard beneath the paper so the knife will not scratch the table. Be sure the cuts you make will leave the overall pattern of lace connected at the borders as in Figure 3 and 4.

When the cut-out has been completed, lay the lace-like white paper on a sheet of colored paper. The contrast will please you and you will think of several ways to use the cut-outs.

Figure 3 suggests a greeting card folder. The front bears the cut-out. The inside and back of the folder are plain. Your message can be written on the righthand inside page.

Figure 4 shows how a four-page folder to hold school papers may be decorated. The outside cover has a cut-out pasted to it as has the folder in Figure 3. Another cut-out is pasted on the inside front cover as in Figure 4. The inside of the back cover may be lettered with a title and message suited to the lesson papers the folder is intended to hold. Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words often misused: Do not say, "There isn't but one dress in the store window." Say "There is but one dress."

Often mispronounced: Distinguish between the pronunciations of plaid (cloth) and plait (braid of hair). Pronounce plaid as "plaid," and pronounce plait as "plate."

Often misspelled: Vial (small vessel). Vile (repulsive; offensive). Viol (musical instrument).

Synonyms: Permit (verb), let, allow, grant, concede, yield, tolerate, authorize, suffer, sanction, remit.

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: inscrutable; incapable of being searched into and understood. "His only response to our questions was an inscrutable smile."

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Your printed advertisement will survive a ringing phone or a trip to the refrigerator. This is why newspapers are most effective in making sales. At any hour of the day, readers can spend as much time with your advertisement as they choose . . . they can re-read it again and again. That's why most people not only like, but want advertising in their newspapers. By actual survey, 94% of women and 91% of men consulted newspaper advertising prior to their last major item purchases.

Your message in this newspaper will reach 8 out of 10 homes in Metropolitan Fox Cities and thousands more families throughout the Fox River Valley. Here's thorough coverage at ONE LOW advertising cost. A current research study* reveals that four out of five readers enjoy newspaper ads as a part of their daily reading. This same study shows that consumers rate newspapers ahead of all other major measured media for advertising that can be depended upon for information that is factual, useful and tells where they can buy the products advertised.
